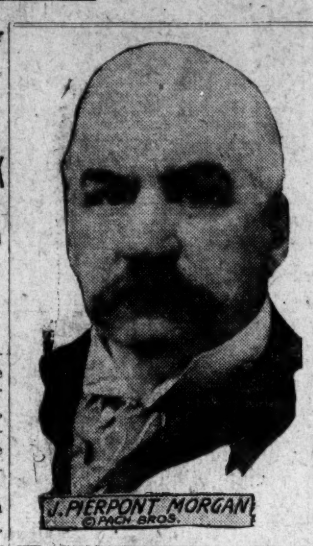
J. PIERPONT MORGAN, MONEY KING, IS DEAD

World's Greatest Financier Passed Away Early Yesterday at Rome

SERIOUSLY ILL OVER A WEEK

In a Semi-comatose Condition—Will be Laid to Rest in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hartford, Conn. Sketch of His Career.



Rome, March 31.—J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier, died here today a few minutes after noon. For months his health has been declining, but the symptoms became greatly aggravated about a week ago and since Wednesday last he had been in a semi-comatose condition.

Tonight his body, lying in the death chamber, is surrounded with flowers. Messages of sympathy have been received from King Victor Emmanuel, high officials of State, diplomatic representatives and from many personal friends in all parts of the world.

The death of Mr. Morgan was not known in Rome until several hours after it occurred, owing to the desire that Mr. Morgan's son, J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., who is in New York, should first be notified.

The official statement prepared by Dr. Guiseppe Bastianelli, Dr. M. Allen Starr and Dr. George A. Dixon, the attending physicians, indicates that a gradual general collapse followed a condition of nervous prostration, which prevented the digestive organs from performing their functions and affected the mental faculties.

For five days Mr. Morgan received artificial nourishment, but was unable to assimilate the food. As a result he very rapidly lost strength. For many hours prior to his death he was in a condition of semi-coma, which prevented him from recognizing those about him. His end was without suffering.

Mr. Morgan's daughter, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, who has been in constant attendance, was at the death bed. She held the hand of her father and tried to obtain some sign of recognition. She thought that when the supreme moment came he faintly pressed her hand. Mr. Satterlee and physicians almost carried the weeping woman out of the room where friends tried to comfort her.

Mr. Satterlee is prostrated by grief and had no statement to make tonight regarding future arrangements. So far no preparations have been made with reference to removal of Mr. Morgan's body to the United States. Those relatives who are in New York will first be communicated with regarding their wishes.

The American ambassador and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien, the secretary of the embassy, George Post Wheeler, and Mrs. Wheeler, who went to the hotel this afternoon to inquire about Mr. Morgan's condition, were there when his death was announced. They remained to offer their services and express condolences.

All the Rome newspapers publish tributes to Mr. Morgan, expressing the deep sense of loss felt by the Italian people. It has been suggested that Mr. Morgan's body should be taken to the United States on board a warship.

Dr. M. Allen Starr, called into consultation in connection with J. Pierpont Morgan's illness, attributed the financier's breakdown to emotion caused by the investigation carried out by the Pujo committee at Washington into the operations of the "Money trust."

Mr. Morgan toward the end showed that he was suffering internally only by a movement of his right hand. Otherwise he displayed no sign of vitality except by continuous heavy breathing.

Frequent bulletins were issued during the morning showing that his condition was gradually becoming worse and by 11 o'clock the physicians had given up all hope.

Mr. Morgan was unable to assimilate the artificial nourishment administered during the morning and his physical weakness was extreme. Heart tonics were injected, but these had no effect and for several hours before his death he was in a state of coma unable to respond to any questions or to recognize any of those at his bedside.

One of his relatives, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, wife of the Rev. Fitzsimmons, arrived from Cannes and was shown into the death chamber, but her presence remained unknown to the dying man.

Besides the four trained nurses in attendance, Miss Helen Hamilton was of great assistance to the three physicians, Prof. Giuesseppe Bastinelli, Dr. M. Allen Starr and Dr. George A. Dixon. From his arrival in Rome Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee had feared a mistake had been made in bringing Mr. Morgan to Rome instead of taking him direct to London, where he would have been in his own house instead of a noisy hotel and they thought, too, that the climate of Rome was too mild in his condition of ill health.

The financier's secretary found it impossible to reply to all the inquiries and Mr. and Mrs. Satterlee expressed the desire to inform the inquirers how touched they were at the manifestations of sympathy they had received.

The body of the late J. Pierpont Morgan is to be embalmed and sent to the United States. A funeral service will be held here before its departure.

Grief in America.

New York, March 31.—John Pierpont Morgan's last resting place probably will be in the mausoleum in Cedar Hill cemetery, Hartford, Conn., which he had erected some years ago in memory of his father and mother. When the body of Mr. Morgan reaches here from Rome, it is expected the funeral services will be held in the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine, toward the construction of which Mr. Morgan was a large contributor.

When the news of Mr. Morgan's death in Rome reached here today expressions of regret at his passing were heard on every hand. In the financial district the Stock Exchange and the Consolidated Exchange passed resolutions of respect to his memory and flags everywhere were dropped to half mast. The offices of J. P. Morgan & Company closed immediately upon receiving the news, and little information was vouchsafed by the members of the firm. The statement was made, however, that the business would be carried on undisturbed by the surviving members. Throughout the day equipages of all kinds drove up to Mr. Morgan's mansion, and their occupants left cards of condolence. The morbid were out in force in the vicinity of the Morgan home, and at one time reached such proportions that it became necessary to request the police to disperse them.

Henry P. Davison, now senior member of J. P. Morgan & Company, said tonight that with the exception of two dispatches announcing the death of Mr. Morgan no information had been received by the firm from Rome. It was expected that a statement of the physicians giving in detail the last illness of the financier would be received, but it failed to come through, according to Mr. Davison. He said there probably would be a family conference tomorrow, and details as to the funeral would then be worked out.

The immediate effect on the machinery of Wall street of Morgan's death was comparatively slight. On the Stock Exchange the news from Rome had largely spent its force within 15 minutes after the opening of the market. Mr. Morgan's illness had prepared the financial district for the end, and every precaution had been taken to guard against a serious break in prices.

At the opening, the prominent stocks declined a point or so, but they received prompt support and rallied quickly. Thereafter, the market was dull.

Wall Street relations with the head of the house of Morgan had been of such large consequence for so many years that the news of his passing made an enormous impression. Bankers, brokers, railroad and business men paid tribute to the dead man. Outside the Morgan offices there was a curious crowd for some time after the news was received. On the office door there was a terse notice that the offices would be closed for the day.

Friends of Mr. Morgan pointed out another reason in addition to the warning given by his illness why the financier's death was not seriously disturbing. His career, they said, was rounded out. He had accomplished virtually all he started out to achieve. For some time the Morgan firm had refrained from large new enterprises.

All that human foresight could dictate had been done during the last year or two to safeguard the business and financial world against calamity when Mr. Morgan's last hour came.

Among the number of numerous appreciations of Mr. Morgan was one by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, the greatest of all the industries organized by Mr. Morgan.

"None of Mr. Morgan's business associates will mourn his death more than those who are connected with the United States Steel Corporation," said Mr. Gary. "His presence, his counsel, his efforts were always influential in the endeavor to establish and maintain a reputation for fair and honorable treatment towards all who might be affected by the decisions and conduct of the corporation. His death will leave a void that can never be filled."

A resolution adopted by the Consolidated Exchange said:

"In the death of Mr. Morgan his country has lost a real American citizen who united with his genius for finance a generous desire to serve his fellow citizens to the fullest extent in the upbuilding and maintaining of American credit throughout the world."

Nothing is known as yet as to how Mr. Morgan in his will disposed of his vast estate.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., was his father's understudy for years, and is classed high in financial ability. He served apprenticeship in the London house of Morgan, Greenfell & Company. He is in the forties, and greatly resembles his father in facial detail, build and even in manner of walking. Like his father, he is quick at reaching a determination on big questions, brusque and intolerant of small details. His preparation to take his father's place in the business world has been thoroughly worked out.

The extent of Mr. Morgan's philanthropic gifts probably will never be known. He gave unostentatiously, impulsively rather than along the lines of a fixed campaign. Probably his largest give was $4,500,000 toward the building of the cathedral of St. John, the Divine, in this city. For the founding of the great Lying-In Hospital, near St. George's church, where Mr. Morgan was a warden, he donated $1,350,000. Harvard benefited by his

World's Work Editor Accepts Ambassadorship to Court of St. James

POSTS TO BE FILLED SOON

President Wilson Will Likely Fill Remaining Ambassadorships Before Beginning of the Extra Session of Congress.

Washington, March 31.—President Wilson probably will fill the majority of the nine ambassadorships now vacant before the beginning of the extra session of Congress next Monday.

The President expects to confer with many of his friends during the present week and it is expected that when Congress convenes nominations for the more important posts will be sent to the Senate.

Today's developments brought out that Walter H. Page, editor of World's Work, and an intimate friend of Mr. Wilson, had been offered and had accepted the ambassadorship to Great Britain. White House officials confirmed the news, and Mr. Page will start for London within 10 days.

It was stated at the White House that, with the exception of Mr. Page, no offers had been made for any other diplomatic posts. The President has had under consideration a list of men to whom he is favorably inclined, but the chief difficulty has been that many of these men hailed from New York State, which he feels already has conspicuous recognition. Two members of the cabinet, Secretaries Redfield and McAdoo, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, of the Navy Department, and Mr. Page have made their homes in New York for many years.

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, and William Church Osborn have been prominently mentioned for diplomatic places, chiefly France and Germany, but the fact that both come from the Empire State is said to be a circumstance that is giving the President no little embarrassment. He is known to hold both in high regard.

Mr. Wilson has been disposed to look further West for some of his diplomatic appointments, and today there came forward prominently the name of Rudolph Spreckles, of San Francisco, as probable ambassador to Germany. Mr. Spreckles practically organized and managed the Wilson Progressive Republican League, and his appointment, it is said, would be a recognition by the President of the aid given him by progressive Republicans during the last campaign.

Elmore W. Hurst, of Rock Island, Illinois, who saw the President today, is also said to be slated for a diplomatic post.

Thomas Nelson Page and Joseph E. Willard, of Virginia, Justice J. W. Gerard, of New York; Frederick C. Penfield, of Germantown, Pa., and Henry Morganthau, of New York, are among those under consideration for diplomatic appointments, but there have been no decisions as to any of these men as yet.

The President had a task today of the difficulties of tariff revision. Many of his callers came to talk for and against various schedules. To all the President listened patiently, but gave not the slightest intimation of what was contained in the schedule of the tariff bill he is studying, or what would be his own attitude toward these subjects.

A. Augustus Healy, of the Brooklyn Academy of Arts and Sciences, who talked with the President about the tariff on leather and hides, was introduced by Secretary Redfield.

W. F. Sardis, of Buenos Ayres, urged the President to see that meat came into this country from Argentina free of duty. Senator Broussard and Governor Hall, of Louisiana, protested against free sugar, while Representative Keating, of Colorado, told the President he favored free sugar, notwithstanding the protest of other Congressmen from Colorado.

THREE KILLED ON SOUTHERN.

Hickory, N. C., March 31.—Engineer W. M. Eagle, of Spencer, together with A. L. Hurdle, conductor, and Ed V. Boyd, fireman, of Asheville, N. C., were killed early today when Southern freight train No. 73, from Salisbury to Asheville, left the rails at Oyama. Eighteen cars and the locomotive were derailed.

The three men were in the engine cab. So far no explanation has been given as to the cause of the wreck.

MISS EMERSON IN GRAVE CONDITION

Suffragettes Want Interference in Behalf of Girl on Hunger Strike

LETTER SMUGGLED TO MOTHER

American Girl in English Prison Says She is Feeling Very Sick—Complains of Ill-treatment—Interest in Case

London, March 31.—Mrs. Emerson, of Detroit, Mich., today received a letter from her daughter, Seelie, who is undergoing two months' imprisonment in Holloway jail for window-smashing. Her "hunger strike," and forcible feeding in prison have attracted a great deal of attention.

The letter was smuggled out by a released prisoner. It stated that Miss Emerson had just completed three days' solitary confinement for violation of the prison rules. She complained that she was feeling very sick and feared permanent impairment of her digestion.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, in a speech today, praised highly "the heroic behavior of Miss Emerson."

Mrs. Pankhurst announced that the woman who tried to catch pneumonia in prison by sponging herself all over with hot water and remaining uncovered all night, as stated by the home secretary on March 18th, was Miss Emerson.

The smuggled letter stated also that Miss Emerson's arm had been badly bruised by the policemen who arrested her.

Baron von Horst, of San Francisco, who has taken great interest in Miss Emerson's case, stated that on one investigation and after taking legal advice, he is satisfied that forcible feeding is illegal and, therefore, constitutes a ground for interference by the American government on behalf of Miss Zeelie Emerson.

Beatrice Harraden has sent the following cablegram to President Woodrow Wilson: "Having just come back from America, where I learned from all sources that there is a strong feeling against the barbarity of forcible feeding, I venture with confidence to beg you to intervene in behalf of Miss Emerson, who is being forcibly fed in Holloway jail and is in a precarious condition."

Home Secretary McKenna, when questioned today in the House of Commons by James Kier Hardie, who urged the release of the suffragist prisoners now undergoing forcible feeding, said that there were two women and one man at the present time undergoing forcible feeding, but that their condition was not dangerous. One of the women he referred to must have been Miss Emerson.

Baron von Horst said tonight he is working in conjunction with the leaders of the Women's Social and Political Union in the preparation of a strong protest to be presented to the American government against the refusal of the authorities at Boston to permit Miss Florence W. Ward, of Birmingham, England, to land at that port. Miss Ward reached Boston Friday on the steamer Ivernia. She admitted having served a term in jail for taking part in a window-smashing crusade in London and for this reason was debarred.

"If that precedent is followed," said Baron von Horst, "it will prevent Mrs. Pankhurst and other suffragette leaders who have been in prison from ever landing in the United States. Therefore, all suffragists should fight to the bitter end. Besides we cannot consistently expect American intervention in behalf of Miss Emerson while, under the American law, a woman like Miss Ward is refused admission.

OUTLINES

Secretary Garrison's reports to President Wilson today continued to convey optimistic news of the flood situation in Ohio.

The case of Miss Zeelie Emerson, the American suffragette imprisoned in England and undertaking a hunger strike, is attracting great attention.

Currency reform will come to the attention of Congress soon after it assembles next week, as several bills will be ready for introduction at that time.

William D. Haywood, organizer for the Industrial Workers of the World, was convicted of disorderly conduct and sentenced to six months in jail at Patterson, N. J., yesterday.

Considerable opposition has developed in the House to the plan of Democratic Leader Underwood to postpone the organization of practically all committees at the opening of the extra session of Congress.

Walter H. Page, editor of World's Work, has been tendered and has accepted the ambassadorship to Great Britain. President Wilson will probably fill the remaining important posts before the extra session of Congress convenes.

The flood waters which have been doing so much damage in the Middle West are sweeping down the Ohio valley. Although the property damage will be immense, the loss of life will be small, owing to warnings having been issued.

J. Pierpont Morgan, whose condition has been grave for a week, died shortly after noon yesterday in Rome. His last resting place will probably be in the mausoleum in Hartford, Conn., which he erected some years ago in memory of his father and mother.

New York markets: Money on call strong, 5 1-2 to 7 per cent.; ruling rate and closing bid 6; offered at 7. Spot cotton closed quiet; middling upland 12.60. Flour quiet but steady. Wheat firm; No. 2 red 1.10 1-2 and 1.12. Corn steady, 58. Turpentine quiet. Rosin easy.

LEVEE GOES DOWN BEFORE THE FLOOD

Break Occurs at Columbus, Ky. and the Entire City Is Inundated

CONDITIONS IN OHIO BETTER

Suffering is Relieved and Rehabilitation of Cities and Towns Begins, Angry Waters Sweeping Down Ohio Valley.

Paducah, Ky., March 31.—The levee at Columbus went out early tonight and at midnight the city is covered from five to ten feet of water. With the exception of several families who are marooned in the second floors of their homes, the entire population of Columbus reached the hills about the city in safety.

Crest at Cincinnati

Cincinnati, March 31.—When the Ohio here reaches a stage of 69.9 feet, which is expected about midnight, the crest of the flood at this point will have been reached. Late today the stage was 69.5 feet. The river rose less rapidly today than at any time since the yellow flood began its course of destruction.

At points east of here the river already has begun to recede, while to the west there is an appreciable accession to the stage and reports from down the river are replete with stories of destruction and desolation.

The direct and indirect damage caused by the flooding of the river front section and the low-lying residential places will be great. An estimate of the indirect loss can never be made, while the direct loss is estimated at more than $2,000,000.

Relief work locally and also in the nearby inundated territory is more than adequate and a statement was today issued by Mayor Hunt to the effect that no more supplies were required here and that a surplus existed that is being turned over to the Red Cross authorities for distribution.

Across the river in the several Kentucky cities and towns that practically form one large city, conditions still are deplorable. All of them are without lights, their gas and electric lighting plants being both shut down. In Newport the property loss, it is declared by authorities, will be more than that suffered in any previous flood.

Relief measures so far have been sufficient to cope with the rather trying situation in all the Kentucky towns across the river from here, except Dayton, where the authorities have appealed to the Federal relief officials for assistance. Estimates at Dayton are that 1,000 homes have been inundated and that more than 4,000 persons are homeless and dependent upon relief measures for subsistence.

Ludlow and Bellevue are in better shape than any of the other small Kentucky cities.

Conditions in Indiana

Indianapolis, March 31. — While Northern and Central Indiana cities today were rehabilitating their flood-devastated districts, the waters disappearing there were tightening their disastrous grip upon southern regions. The government relief boat Scioto, in command of Lieutenant Height, U. S. A., towed a barge load of provisions into Lawrenceburg today to find but 40 of 5,000 homes there not under water. When the boat proceeded to Aurora, conditions were found almost as bad, with but 500 homes free from the reach of the waters.

Governor Ralston, on the appeal of Mount Vernon, ordered out the company of militia stationed there to patrol its own town.

Leavenworth sent a ringing cry for help. New Harmony and Evansville reported increasing suffering from the rising waters, but the mayor of Vincennes telephoned that the water there is falling and, although the property loss is heavy and many flooded portions are segregated by swift currents, it is believed no lives have been lost. People of Southern Indiana heeded flood warnings quickly through the fear created by reports from the flood districts of the Central States region.

Reports of fatalities where the flood struck unexpectedly, but now is gone, still are conflicting. Peru's list of 20 promises to shrink somewhat, but with those figures still standing, Indiana's loss of life stands at 68. Three bodies of the drowned were found in West Indianapolis today, one remaining unidentified, while four refugees have been victims of the exposure suffered. Indiana is recovering, outside aid greatly relieving its burden, and today business conditions in Indianapolis were quite normal, with public utilities completely restored. Some southern towns, believed to be suffering from rising waters, are cut off from communication, but ample warning has removed much danger of loss of life.

Ohio Rises From Floods.

Columbus, O., March 31.—"Refreshed by the tears of the American people, Ohio stands ready from today to meet the crisis alone."

Such was the statement issued by Governor Cox early this evening, shortly before he left the executive office for home and the first full night's rest he has had in more than a week.

"Ohio has risen from the floods."

"Such a pitiless blow from nature as we sustained would have wiped out society and destroyed governments in other days. We cannot speak our gratitude to President Wilson for Federal aid, to the Red Cross, to States, municipalities, trade organizations and individuals that send funds and supplies; they will never know their contribution to humanity.

The relief situation so far as food and clothing are concerned is in hand. Thankful to her friends who succored her, Ohio faces tomorrow serene and confident."

As the flood waters of Ohio continued to recede and while property own-

MEMBERS OPPOSE UNDERWOOD PLAN

Several Congressmen Want Committees Appointed at Extra Session

MANY MATTERS TO CONSIDER

Other Legislation Needed Besides Tariff, is Contention—Sims Leads the Fight for Organizing All Committees.

Washington, March 31.—Democratic opposition has developed in the House to the plan agreed upon by Representative Underwood and other party leaders, that no committees should be appointed at the opening of the special session except those necessary to the transaction of routine business and the handling of the tariff revision bills.

Representative Sims, of Tennessee, one of those who urged the appointment of other important committees at the outset of the session, discussed the matter with President Wilson today. The latter made no recommendation on the subject and said he had an "open mind" upon it.

It has been the plan of Democratic Leader Underwood and his colleagues to hold back the organization of other committees so that full attention may be given the tariff while that subject is before the House. Members who favor the appointment of other committees insist that this plan would be interpreted in many quarters as a method of forcing members of the House to support the tariff bill. Further than this, it is claimed that Panama canal, Philippine, Alaskan, currency, appropriations and other legislation will require consideration by committees early in the session.

Representative Underwood and Senator Simmons, the latter chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, got into communication today over details of the tariff bill, and will confer informally throughout the week. Both will discuss the tariff programme in detail with President Wilson within the next day or two.

Representative Underwood has prepared a comprehensive hand-book of detailed comparative information regarding the proposed changes to be submitted to the caucus with the tariff revision bill. The changes made have been so numerous and drastic that to ensure caucus approval the committee majority proposes to place before each Democratic Representative full explanatory data.

President Wilson indicated today that he expected to advise the House Ways and Means Committee Democrats tomorrow of his opinion of the bill, and if he does the caucus will be called for next Tuesday.

Currency Reform Coming Up.

Washington, March 31.—Currency reform will come informally to the attention of Congress soon after it assembles next week, notwithstanding efforts of President Wilson and the Democratic leaders of the two houses to focus attention upon the tariff during the early weeks of the extra session. At least a half dozen currency bills will be ready for introduction when Congress meets, it is believed, and their appearance in the House and Senate will mark the beginning of a general discussion of financial reform.

Most of the bills now being prepared represent the views of individual members, and will be introduced as individual bills. Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, and Representative Glass, of Virginia, are working upon measures which probably will be submitted first to the banking committees of the respective houses, and made the basis for committee study.

Senator Owen stated today that he would call a meeting of the Democratic members of the Senate's new Committee on Banking and Currency, to be held late this week. The suggested plan of currency reform will not be taken up in detail at that time, however. Senator Owen practically has completed a bill representing his views of needed reform, and it will be submitted to the committee and studied with other measures that come before that body.

Senator Owen has not made public the details of his contemplated bill, nor indicated the extent to which it may provide a central agency under governmental control. The bill prepared by Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, and a member of the Senate committee, which provides for 20 separate and independent currency associations in the United States, will be introduced early in the session.

Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, a member of the Senate committee, will reintroduce the bill drawn by the National Monetary Commission, providing for a National reserve association. Senator Weeks said today the measure would be changed in no way from the form approved by the monetary commission, and in which it was introduced in the last Congress.

MUNIFICENT GIFT FOR PUBLIC PARK

Beautiful Long Leaf Pine Forest Given to People of the County

MR. AND MRS. M'RAE DONORS

Near Winter Park Gardens and Admirably Located—Potential Value $150,000—Practically No Conditions.

A munificent gift to the public that will be of absorbing interest to the people, not only of New Hanover county, but which will attract attention throughout North Carolina and even beyond State bounds was made yesterday to the people of New Hanover by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacRae, who drew a deed for 153 acres of beautiful long-leaf pine forest at Winter Park Gardens for a public park in favor of five trustees as representatives of the people of the city and county.

In potential value the gift represents easily $150,000. In present value, according to the standard of value of adjacent property, it represents as much as $76,500. It, therefore, ranks as one of the great benefactions of the State and in the years to come will cause the benefactors to be gratefully remembered by an appreciative people.

The big tract of second growth long leaf pine, jealously guarded for many years by Mr. MacRae, who has proved that the long leaf pine will reseed itself and reproduce itself if protected from fire and the depredations by hogs and cattle, has aroused admiration in many a passenger on the Wrightsville Beach railway because of the inviting natural beauty of the place. The gift has a frontage of 891 feet on the railway and extends deep into the forest, taking in Crystal Lake, one of the loveliest bits of scenery imaginable, with its cypress trees and garlands of moss. It is ideal for park purposes and when improved, as it will be, no city in the South will possess a more attractive place where its people may walk abroad and recreate themselves."

The deed is made to Mr. M. S. Willard, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Mayor Jos. D. Smith, of the city of Wilmington, and Mr. John J. Blair, superintendent of the city schools, and their successors in office; and Mr. W. A. McGirt, of this city, and Mr. L. D. Latta, of Winter Park. It provides that the successor of any one of the officials named immediately becomes one of the trustees of the park, and the three official members shall fill any vacancy occurring in the remainder of the board of trustees, provided that the citizen members of the board be selected, one from Wilmington and one from Winter Park Gardens.

The trustees shall provide protection for the trees, birds and wild animals on the tract, and prevent the cutting of trees or other damage to the property and trespassing by hunters, etc. They shall build roads and pathways as deemed necessary and improve the grounds. After the death of the donors, and with the consent and approval of the State Forester, they may cut and remove or destroy such trees the removal of which would improve and beautify the place. For protection against fires, they shall disc and rake clean an avenue around the property each year. The right to gather the pine straw on the tract is reserved to the donors and their heirs and assigns, and for 10 years they and their heirs will have the privilege of lowering the water in Crystal Lake and use it, cutting ditches to convey it away for their purposes. If any of the agreements in the deed, as signed by all parties interseted, is broken, the property shall revert to the donors or their heirs.

Other than these simple conditions, for the most part designed for the improvement and beautification of the property, there are no "strings", so that the gift amounts to a most princely present to the white people of New Hanover county, who will immediately respond to the announcement with cordial expressions of appreciation, and in the years to come appreciation will grow until future generations will give the full measure of praise to the donors which the magnificent benefaction will inspire.

Asked what his idea was for making the gift to the public, Mr. MacRae told a Star representative yesterday that he was firmly convinced that in the course of no great time, Wilmington would stretch to Wrightsville Beach, a vast and unbroken city of untold thousands of inhabitants; and he said that when the fruition of such hopes came, this park would be somewhere near the center of the great city, and would be needed and enjoyed by the people of a Greater Wilmington.

The property, as stated, is near Winter Park Gardens, on the east side of the beach railway, four miles from the city. It is thickly grown in long leaf pines of the growth of many years, is comparatively high and a bit rolling, and extending back to the cypress lake, which is several acres in extent, it would seem naturally created for park purposes. Around it are lands and lots that have sold for a high price and which are daily increasing in value. The park property in the next few years could easily be disposed of in a gradual manner at the rate of $1,000 an acre. It is accessible by car and within reach of a modern highway, the car fare being a straight fare of five cents.

Formal Presentation

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock Mr. MacRae carried the trustees named to the park property in his automobile, and upon their arrival they met Mrs. MacRae and Mrs. W. L. Parsley, and quite an interesting ceremony follow-the property, which was immediately signed by the lakeside, beneath the pines. It was a bit romantic and will prove historical and but for the modesty of the donors there would have been a living production of the scene, and maybe, anyway, if the artist, Mr. J. J. Blair, of the city schools, will some day put upon canvas what took place at the transfer of this private holding to the public at large. Mr. Willard, Mr. Blair and Mr. Smith all responded and hats were off, because all realized that it was no unusual occasion.

The news of the action of Mr. MacRae in this instance, while it will arouse no little comment and much praise, will come as no surprise to the people of the city and county and to the people of the whole State who have kept up with the development of numerous propositions in which Mr. MacRae has been interested. A business man in business for the usual purposes of business men, he has stepped outside of selfish interests on more than one occasion, or else has so blended his own and the interests of all comers, that no line could be drawn separating his interests from those of the people who benefitted by his investments. He has brought colonies of European peoples to Eastern Carolina, who have taken a fertile but, as it was, unavailable soil, and created a perfect paradise of productivity. That is a matter that has interested and has been admired by the whole State. Locally, he took decrepit trolley lines and out of them has built a splendid city and suburban railway system through which the country for miles out of the city has been developed until such a place as Winter Park Gardens is a miracle of development when it is considered that it has sprung from a waste. Those who admire and who with the keener eye see the finer impulses behind such actions as this one, as well as those who weigh only the financial part of such transactions, will appreciate in the very largest sense the gift herein recorded.

BISHOP AT KINSTON

Confirmation Sunday Afternoon—Other Notes of Interest

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., March 31.—Bishop Strange, of the diocese of Eastern Carolina, preached in St. Mary's Episcopal church here twice yesterday, and at the evening service conducted the holy rite of confirmation. In the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Bishop Strange consecrated a colored Episcopal church on South Independent street. He was heard by large congregations at all the services.

The A. M. Waddell Chapter, U. D. C., of this city, has made preparations for the observance of Shiloh Day, on April 19th, and also Memorial Day, on May 10th. The speaker for Shiloh Day will be Joseph Kinsey, county superintendent of schools, and Hon. Francis D. Winston, of Windsor, will deliver the Memorial Day address.

The object of much attention on all sides here was a tiny fox terrier, which sustained the reputation of its species for rat-killing by slaying 48 rats in a short time at a stable near the business section. Some of the rodents were almost as large as the dog, the property of Stephen Fordham, and these fought the little animal savagely. Many scars were left on her head and face, but this did not deter the terrier from her work of examination. The 48 rats were all killed in a short time during a single morning, and totalled in weight 20 times as much as the dog.

Col. W. C. Rodman, the new commander of the Second North Carolina infantry, will inspect the 14 organizations comprising his regiment during the coming month, according to information from him to officers of the command here. This will be the first time in many years that the colonel in command of this regiment has paid the companies a visit at their home stations.

LETTER OF PROTEST.

New York Rectors Oppose Elimination of Word "Protestant."

New York, March 31.—The recent agitation in the Protestant Episcopal Church and its press, to eliminate from its name the word "Protestant" or to adopt a new name, has called forth a letter of protest from 15 prominent rectors of New York, which has been sent to the Right Rev. Daniels S. Tuttle, of Missouri, presiding bishop of the church.

One of the names suggested to which objection is found is the "American Catholic Church."

Those who favor its adoption propose to submit for consideration at the next general convention of the church in this city in October.

The letter was made public in New York tonight. In part it is as follows:

"We believe the time to be inopportune for changing the name because the great number opposed to the change will be sincerely disturbed by such action; because it seems quite evident that those who desire a change cannot agree upon a name, and because church unity, of which we are becoming more hopeful, cannot be advanced by a church which deliberately destroys its own peace.

"We do not undertake to discuss herein the adequacy of our present name, though we insist that there is a vast difference between the question of the church's wisdom in its original selection and the proposal to drop the name which the church has honorably borne since our people became a nation."

Washington Americans Defeat Alexandria, Va., Cardinals 14 to 0

Washington, March 31.—In a farcical exhibition game here today the Washington American League baseball team defeated the Cardinals of the Alexandria, Va., Athletic Club, by the score of 14 to 0. In honor of the occasion, the mayor of Alexandria had declared the day a public holiday and hundreds of residents and school children of that city witnessed the game.

RECEIVERSHIP ASKED.

Stockholders Allege Trust Company Is Violating Its Rights.

Atlanta, Ga., March 31.—The Guarantee Trust & Banking Company, of Atlanta, today was ordered by George L. Bell, of the Superior Court, to appear before the court April 15th, to show cause why a receiver for the company should not be appointed.

Action by Judge Bell followed the institution of two suits against the company by two stockholders and two bondholders. In a petition for a receivership filed by J. J. Russell and J. R. Rivers, holders of $500 worth of stock each, it is alleged that the company has violated its trust and banking rights by purchasing real estate. The petitioners allege further that the company now is insolvent.

Similar allegations are contained in a suit instituted today by Matthew Delaney, holder of $2,500 worth of the company's bonds, and E. E. Skipper, bondholder to the amout of $1,000. The latter petition alleges that the Guarantee Trust & Banking Company recently paid a three per cent. dividend out of its capital stock. In this petition, it also is alleged that the company has made bad land investments in Florida, and an auditing of the company's financial affairs is sought. Action on the last mentioned part of the petition was deferred by the court until tomorrow.

The Guarantee Trust & Banking Company was incorporated in this State on November 27th, 1907. Its capital stock is listed at $500,000. S. E. Smith, said to be a majority stockholder, is president of the company.

WM. D. HAYWOOD CONVICTED

Industrial Workers' Organizer Gets Six Months for Disorderly Conduct

Patterson, N. J., March 31.—William D. Haywood, organizer for the Industrial Workers of the World, was sentenced to six months in the county jail this afternoon on conviction of disorderly conduct in connection with a gathering of strikers yesterday at LaFayette oval here. He came here in connection with the silk mill workers' strike.

A second charge, that of causing unlawful assemblage, also was lodged against him. On this he was held for the grand jury, with the amount of his bail to be fixed later.

Haywood pleaded not guilty to both charges. He was sent to the county jail to begin sentence, but an appeal probably will be taken.

Haywood was given the maximum sentence with which disorderly conduct is punishable. During his term of imprisonment he will have to work 10 hours a day at hard labor.

One hundred policemen, armed with riot guns, were ordered stretched around police headquarters during the hearing. Fully 10,000 strikers and strike sympathizers gathered outside the building. So ugly appeared to be their mood that the police locked Haywood in a cell at police headquarters instead of taking him to the county jail until the crowd dispersed.

CAPTURED A STILL

Guilford County Officers Break Up a Moonshine Outfit

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., March 31.—Sheriff Stafford, of Guilford county, and his three deputies returned at midnight last night from Sumner township, where, in the vicinity of Deep river, they located and cut up one of the largest stills ever discovered in Guilford. The still was all in readiness for operation with wood and all other necessary things near at hand to make a run. The blockaders discovered the officers' approach and made a safe get away. The Guilford officers had a rough time in the Deep river section. They became water-bound; were forced to plod their way through deep, muddy roads and in an isolated country. They discovered the plant, a 100-gallon affair, however, and chopped it up, pouring on the ground approximately 1,500 gallons of beer. The officers left town Saturday night and were more than 24 hours in making the trip, completing their labor of destruction and returning to town.

WON'T ACCEPT RESIGNATIONS.

Daniels Believes Midshipmen Should Serve the Government.

Washington, March 31.—Secretary Daniels, of the Navy Department, announced today that he had taken a decided stand against accepting the resignation of midshipmen and other naval officers before they fulfill their contract with the government. The government regards itself as having a binding contract with the officers to serve eight years, including the four years at the academy.

The secretary said that since the government was at considerable expense to educate and train these officers he believes it should receive a permanent benefit for the expense involved.

GUILFORD COURT.

Judge Peebles Presiding—Blind Tigers in Court at Greensboro.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., March 31.—Judge Peebles opened a one-week term of criminal court here this morning, delivering an able charge on the criminal laws and ordering adjournment at 11 o'clock because of lack of work. The calendar for the entire week includes just 33 cases, the smallest in the county's history. With one exception, a negro murder case, all the cases are of a more or less trifling nature.

While the Superior Court was sitting with nothing to do there were busy scenes over in the city court. Fifteen blind tigers, including John Fegleman, alleged "Tiger King" of the town, were gathered in by the police in a Sunday raid and those tried this morning drew sentences ranging from three months to two years. Fegleman is out on $1,000 bond. Most of the defendants were negroes or the regulation "tiger" class of whites. Fegleman, however, is of a different class, comes of good family and it is alleged has operated on a wholesale scale in connection with a mercantile business. The police charge that a dozen negroes worked for him as "runners." He was once before indicted, but acquitted at trial. A hard luck feature in connection with Fegleman's arrest is the reported fact that he was preparing to close his business here and go to a farm in the country. It is said that he had made up his mind that with a rigid enforcement of the search and seizure law there would be little hope for a continuation of his efforts here.

The body of John Sillmon, who was killed in Houston, Texas, last week, arrived here this morning and was carried to Guilford College for interment this afternoon. Sillmon was a Greensboro man and several years ago went to Texas to engage in the contracting business. He was caught beneath a falling wall last Thursday and his life crushed out. Mrs. Sillmon, with two children, was at the time visiting her parents in Randleman and she came here to await the body. The corpse was accompanied by a representative of the Houston lodge of Elks and Odd Fellows.

NUDES AND PRUDES.

Unique Case from Washington Comes Up in Supreme Court.

Washington, March 31.—The case of the "nudes and the prudes" testing the validity of the Washington State publication law, was appealed today to the Supreme Court of the United States. The case takes its name from an article alleged to have been edited by Jay Fox and printed in the "Agitator", a paper in Pierce county, Washington, in which the names of several persons bathing nude in the bay at Home, Washington, was discussed. Fox was sentenced to prison for two months after conviction on a charge of editing an article tending to excite disregard of the law. He claims that the law under which he was convicted abridges the freedom of spech and the press, but the Supreme Court of Washington held that it merely punished the abuse of this freedom.

The "community of home," according to the article Fox is averred to have edited, is a "community of free spirits who came out into the woods to escape the polluted contamination of priest ridden, conventional society."

One of the liberties enjoyed by Homeites, the article said, was "the privilege to bathe in evening dress, or with merely the clothes nature gave them, just as they chose."

EXPERIMENT IN BRAZIL.

E. C. Green Will Try to Increase the Cotton Crop.

Washington, March 31.—Brazil has made a three-year contract with E. C. Green, a cotton expert of the Department of Agriculture, who will conduct experiments by which Brazil hopes to increase her cotton crop. There is a vast territory in the eastern equatorial part of the country which, it is believed, will yield excellent crops of cotton.

As Brazil is expanding her agricultural energies in other directions, Mr. Green probably will be employed in vairous fields of investigation for which his training has fitted him.

WHERE BRIBE CAME FROM.

New York Grand Jury Tries to Trace Its Source.

New York, March 31.—The grand jury investigating the police graft scandal today attempted to trace the source of an alleged bribe fund of $25,000, raised to keep John J. Hartigan, a patrolman, recently convicted of perjury, from making a confession involving superior officers. The jury also looked into a report that just before Hartigan was sentenced to prison, former Inspector Dennis Sweeney, who has been indicted for alleged grafting, visited him in the Tombs after hours.

District Attorney Whitman and Hartigan's friends, including his wife, had expected the convicted patrolman would tell all he knew.

The alleged visits of Sweeney to Hartigan took place the week before Hartigan was sentenced. It was during this week, according to the allegation, the grand jury is probing, that Hartigan was promised $25,000 to take his sentence without making a confession.

POSTOFFICE TEST NOT TOO HARD

Mr. Burleson Confers on Examination for Fourth-class Officials

The problem of providing civil service examinations for the thousands of fourth-class postmasters placed under the classified service by executive order was taken up at the conference at the Postoffice Department yesterday. Postmaster General Burleson, Assistants Roper and Dockery, several minor Postoffice Department officials, and Civil Service Commissioner McIlhenny went over the situation.

Tests will be framed by the department and the civil service commission jointly and will be submitted to President Wilson for his approval. The order for the examination would have to come from the President.

The department officials finding considerable difficulty in arriving at a basis for tests which would insure the securing of competent men, and at the same time not be so difficult as to frighten off applicants for the places.

POLICEMAN KILLS NEGRO

Kinston Patrolman Shoots Negro Who Attacked Him—Exonerated

(Special Star Telegram.)

Kinston, N. C., March 31.—Alonzo Cox, colored, was shot and killed by Patrolman Kennedy in a negro section of the city today about noon. Cox, arrested for larceny, asked the policeman to go with him to his aunt to secure bond. Suspecting a ruse the officer refused to allow the prisoner to enter his house alone and the black man suddenly attacked him. Kennedy drew a revolver and Cox attempted to disarm him. A struggle ensued and afraid the negro, who was larger, would get the weapon and shoot him the policeman fired twice. Both shots struck Cox in the stomach and death quickly followed. A coroner's jury exonerated Kennedy.

Champs Defeat Pirates 2 to 0.—Yerkes' Triple Scores Runs.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 31.—The Boston Americans shut out the Pittsburg National League team 2 to 0, in the sixth and last scheduled game, and won the exhibition series, three to two, here today. One game was a tie.

Boston will finish the training season and leave for home tomorrow. Pittsburg will stay until later in the week.

Yerkes' triple in the eighth inning off Adams' delivery, scoring Ball and Hall, won today for Boston.

BIG SEIZURE OF OYSTERS.

U. S. Officials Say 32 Barrels Contain Germs.

The first seizure of oysters since the examination of the waters of the lower Potomac by the specialists of the Department of Agriculture, under the direction of Dr. Stiles, was made the 24th, at Washington, by the United States marshal, on a writ signed by Justice Stafford, sitting in Criminal Court No. 1. The case is regarded as of particular interest to the public at large, owing to the charges that sewage from Washington has been contaminating the Potomac river.

The papers in the case, a libel proceeding under the Pure Food law, were taken into court by Assistant United States District Attorney John Lewis Smith. The charge is that the oysters are infected with germs, and are unfit for consumption. It is claimed that the bacilli found in them are the same as those that contaminate milk.

Gowans Philosophy

The man who was working in a paper mill one day accidentally dropped some indigo in a vat of pulp. He had bought the Indigo for His Wife to make Blueing—it Being Wash Day at Home. He was a Poor Man and when he saw that he had discolored the pulp he was very much excited and saw, as he supposed, that he had lost his Job and also his Blueing. In great dismay he saw the blue paper coming out of the machine—and he was sorelly distressed.

The proprietor saw what had happened and he raised the man's salary and the world got Colored Paper and it has been in demand ever since and will always be.

I know a hundred different physicians who were called in to see patients suffering from INFLAMMATION of one kind or other, and because there was in the house Gowans Preparation they used it—and seeing the immediate relief which it afforded they have been prescribing it ever since for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Pneumonia. Ordinarily a physician will KNOCK what he calls patent medicines—but GOWANS stands high with many reputable practitioners. Why? Because it does all that is claimed for it, and when a physician accidentally happens to discover something he knows is the stuff he doesn't fail to use and recommend it. Gowans is external and a good doctor isn't afraid of an external application. All druggists, and a dollar buys a big bottle.

JUDGE CARTER IS UP IN ARMS

Severely Criticises Course of Justice in Wake County—Has Tilt With Solicitor Norris—Cases Are Continued.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., March 31.—Judge Carter, of Asheville, stirred a sensation in Wake Superior Court today when he declared from the bench that it is evident to him that justice cannot be had in Wake county and that he would insist on a number of important criminal cases being removed to Franklin county.

The declaration elicited a protest from Solicitor H. E. Norris and a hot colloquy between the solicitor and the judge that brought an insistence from Judge Carter that he meant no reflection on the solicitor and his official record. Finally the cases in question were continued for the term.

The trouble started with the calling of the Arnie Ruth case for trial in which the boy, who has already been acquitted of the charge of manslaughter after the jury had deliberated two days, is charged with carrying concealed weapons. It was found that the boy's lawyer, J. W. Hinsdale, Jr., was not in the court house. The solicitor offered to pass over the case, but Judge Carter declared curtly that the case must go to trial, although it was asserted that Hinsdale would be in court in a few minutes. He directed Mr. Douglass to take the case as counsel for the defendant. The trial began and it developed that the prosecution proposed to use a client of Douglass in another case as a witness and Douglass insisted on being relieved of appearing. Then Chas. U. Harris was directed by the court to defend. He pleaded for the case to be passed over until Hinsdale came in. "Well," said the judge, "the case is continued." "No," declared Solicitor Norris, "I will enter a nol pros. before I will consent to continue." He urged that he could call the cases of W. L. Wiggs, J. M. Nipper and Jim Johnson, charged with whipping inhumanly county convicts under them. Then came the "explosion" from the bench. Judge Carter declared that his information was that the county commissioners were preparing to defend these men in the trial. There had, he said, been a most flagrant miscarriage of justice in the case of R. E. Howell, foreman of the Norfolk Southern shops here, who was acquitted of larceny and receiving, and he had observed other flagrant failures of juries to convict. If the solicitor would not draw the affidavit for the removal of the Nipper-Wiggs-Johnson cases to another county he would do so himself.

Solicitor Norris declared that no one could charge him with failure to discharge any duty devolving upon him and that if reputable citizens made affidavit of necessity for removal he would draw the affidavit, but he would not do so on the say so of an ex-convict.

GEO. GERKEN RELEASED

Placed Under Bond for Entering Room of Geo. B. McLeod

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., March 31.—Before adjourning Wake Superior Court for the term, Judge Carter made an order for young George Gerken, formerly of Wilmington, to be released under $500 bond for his appearance in March, 1914, to show record for sobriety, good behavior and hard work, he, of course, to pay the cost in the case against him for entering the room of State Senator George McLeod, of Robeson county.

The court also received a submission by Robert Aeis, alias Duntz, in the case against him for stealing a $700 diamond from H. Mahler & Sons here last Summer. He was given one year in the penitentiary. The case had been continued earlier in the term on account of the absence of an important witness for the prosecution.

Amos Jackson, colored, was given 25 years' sentence for murder in the second degree, in which he made a submission without trial.

EMORY M'NEILL, JR., DEAD

Lumberton Man Succumbs to Wounds Received Saturday

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., March 31.—Emory McNeill, Jr., who was shot by Barfield Prevatt on the streets here Saturday night, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Prevatt seems to have made his escape, all efforts to locate him being in vain. As soon as the deed was committed Prevatt hurried away. At the time of the shooting Policemen Prevatt and Roach, who were two blocks away, hurried to the scene, but the man who did the shooting was already gone. Chief Redfern was five blocks away, having in custody one of the toughest drunks seen here in some time. No blame can be attached to any of the officials for the escape of Prevatt.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., March 31.—A telegram came tonight to Governor Craig from Chas. C. Hook, representing the citizens of Charlotte to the effect that Charlotte had raised $2,142 for the Ohio valley flood sufferers and that this amount is just forwarded to the relief authorities. Col. Kerr, the Governor's private secretary, made public this achievement on the part of Charlotte in the absence of the Governor and pronounced it by big odds the best donation yet made on the part of North Carolina toward this urgent cause for which Governor Craig issued his appeal to the people of the State last week.

High School Closes Most Successful Year—Programme

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Garland, N. C., March 29.—The closing exercises of the High School at this place, at the school house last evening, proved to be a great success. Music, recitations, dialogues, drills, etc., were of a high order and reflected great credit upon teachers and pupils. The "Tom Thumb Wedding" was especially good as was also the "Village Skewl." The faculty, consisting of Mr. Chevis Kerr, of Clinton, principal; assisted by Misses Mary Sloan, of Garland, and Emma Bronson, of Libson, has done especially good work this year and the school is proving quite a factor in the life of the community.

RED LETTER DAY FOR SCHOOLS

First County Commencement a Great Success in Onslow

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Jacksonville, N. C., March 29.—Yesterday all of the schools of the county held a joint commencement at the county seat. The success of the occasion outdid the most sanguine expectations of those who had been behind the movement, and yesterday will become the first date of an epoch in the school history of the county. No public event here ever brought so many children and few have attracted the attention of so many older people.

A brief resume of the day's programme includes the forming of a great procession of school children at the high school building, who, led by a band, marched through the town to the Court House; an explanatory talk by County Superintendent Walter M. Thompson; an able and practical address by Prof. C. W. Wilson, of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School, and the delivery of 27 diplomas to those who were entitled to graduation from the elementary schools, composed the morning session. The afternoon session was given to the contests in spelling, declamation, recitation and essay writing.

Mr. Roy J. Morton, of the Jacksonville school, was awarded a prize for winning the spelling contest; Mr. Edward Howard, of the Richlands school, won the medal given for best delivered declamation; Miss Katie Sabiston, of the Belgrade school, won the medal in the recitation contest; Miss Frankie Howard, of the Richlands school, won the essayist's medal; Miss Atward Sloan, teacher in the Belgrade school, won the medal for the best school exhibit, and the banner for the best average attendance was awarded to Prof. E. J. Wellons for the Jacksonville school.

Those who won these first honors did splendid work in their respective lines; but every prize was won on very close margins. All of the contestants acquitted themselves like experienced speakers and readers; but as a matter of fact, this was the first considerable public appearance for many of them.

Last night the High School debating contest was held. Before a Court House crowded as it had been all day, the young debaters handled the question of Woman Suffrage. There were six contestants: Miss Sadie Taylor, representing the Richlands school, and the only lady contestant, won the medal by strongly supporting the woman's right to the ballot.

The sharp and generous rivalry of the schools in these contests will greatly stimuate endeavor, and the county commencement, which will become institutional from this time, will afford a chance for the development of such talent as is so abundant among the rural schools.

Yesterday was a gala day in every respect, and it must be marked as a day when faithful work of teachers and superintendent, during the past years begins to be properly recognized by the public.

A movement will be started for a large auditorium that will accommodate all who will come, and the success of yesterday's performance will be the stimulus for greater effort and continued success along the line of school improvement.

TRINITY 10; AMHERST 1.

Methodists Have Easy Sailing in Game With Northerners.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Durham, N. C., March 31.—Trinity defeated Amherst today by the score of 10 to 1. Tilton pitched a fair game for Amherst, but his support was mediocre. Washburn, who made four hits, scored the only run for Amherst in the fourth. Litchfield started the scoring for Trinity in the first, hitting a three-bagger and coming home on Thompson's fly. In the second, Whit scored on Few's two-bagger and in the fifth Litchfield reached third on short's error, scoring again on Thompson's fly. In the same inning Anderson scored on Patterson's fly. In the sixth the feature of the game occurred when Maddox hit a three-bagger and then stole home. In the eighth Amherst went to pieces and nine men faced the pitcher. Whit got a one-base hit and Few did the same, Fitzgerald drove a two-bagger to right, scoring Whit; Litchfield hit an easy one to short, who missed it, and Fitzgerald and Few scored; Litchfield came in on a passed ball; Anderson reached first on an error, and scored on Spence's hit to right. Fitzgerald pitched well, but allowed 10 scattered hits. He was splendidly supported. Few, a new man, played a good game in right. Trinity made 11 effective hits.

Batteries: Trinity, Fitzgerald and Maddox; Amherst, Tilton and Strahan. Umpire, Henderson.

Ugly Sores Quickly Banished

You Marvel How Worst Skin Eruptions Disappear as Result of Famous Remedy.

If you have been fighting some blood trouble, some eruptive skin disease, call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, malaria, scrofula or what you will, there is but one sure, safe way to cure it. Ask at any drug store for a $1.00 bottle of S. S. S. and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is just as direct, just as positive, just as certain in its influence as that the sun rises in the east. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor. The lungs breathe it out, the liver is stimulated to consume a great proportion of impurities, the stomach and intestines cease to convey into the blood stream the catarrhal, malarial germs; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all emunctories of the body are marshalled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of eruptive disease.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy to-day, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Their medical laboratory is famous and is conducted by renowned experts in blood and skin diseases.

KILLS HIS FATHER.

Young Russian Shoots Parent at Goldsboro to Save Mother.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Goldsboro, N. C., March 31.—Today about 1 o'clock, Joe Motzno shot his father, D. Motzno, a Russian shoemaker of this city, who died a few minutes afterwards. For years, in fact, ever since the family moved to Goldsboro, there has been infelicity in the home, frequently open quarrels occurring between husband and wife, and often the law having to interpose. Separations have followed and these have been in turn followed by re-united periods, followed by storms, outbursts of passion, and furious ragings by the husband, until at length, for some months the husband has been forbidden the home by his son, Joe, who, since he has grown to young manhood, has been physically able to protect his mother from personal violence at the hands of his infuriated father. When in his rage periods this morning the father sent word to the home that he would be there at noon for the purpose of having another stormy house. Motzno went to the home of his wife at the hour he had named, armed with a pistol, and a big stick. He was met at the door by his wife and Joe. When he saw them he exclaimed, "Now I got you," rushing up to his wife, and striking her on the head with the stick. Then Joe shot him five times. The coroner's jury bound Joe over to court. Sentiment is all with young Motzno.

Delicious Saratoga Chips made with

Cottolene

Saratoga Chips made with Cottolene are never greasy, as are those made with lard. The reason for this is that Cottolene heats to about 100 degrees higher than either butter or lard, without burning, quickly forming a crisp coating which excludes the fat. Your chips, therefore, are crisp, dry and appetizing.

Cottolene costs about the price of lard, and will go one-third farther than either butter or lard.

Cottolene is never sold in bulk — always in air-tight tin pails, which protect it from dirt, dust and odors. It is always uniform and dependable.

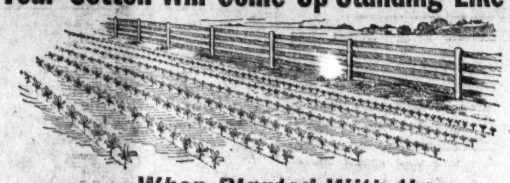
Your Cotton Will Come Up Standing Like This



When Planted With the

LEDBETTER "One Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter

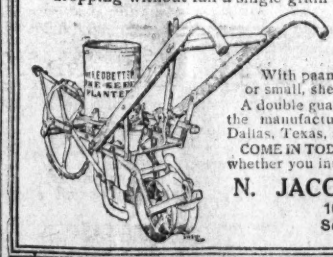
COME in and see the only real cotton planter. The planter with a positive, precise force feed, that will take linty cotton seed, just as it comes from the gin, and plant the seed in a straight, narrow line—one at a time, equal distances apart—as regular as buttons on a card.

Other planters can be set to plant "thick or thin," but this planter will plant thick—a bushel or more of seed to the acre—without bunching, or thin-down to a bushel to six acres—without skips.

Each plant stands alone with its own few inches of growing room—cuts the work of chopping down to one-half, and you can take your own time about chopping—plants keep on growing and make stocky, vigorous bushes.

When you plant your cotton with a Ledbetter "One-Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter—one seed at a time, evenly spaced—you can plant the best seed that money can buy at no more cost than ordinary seed, because none are wasted in useless bunching. And you get 5 bales of cotton on the same land that grew only 4 before, because there are no skips in the row.

When the Ledbetter "One Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter is set for planting corn it is strictly a corn planter, without an equal for that purpose—dropping without fail a single grain at any distance desired from 8 to 48 inches. And the same is equally true when set to plant other seeds, such as peas, beans, canteloupes, watermelon, sorghum, millet, etc.



With peanut attachment it plants peanuts, large or small, shelled or in the shell, with equal success.

A double guarantee is behind every planter, that of the manufacturers, The Southern Plow Company, Dallas, Texas, and ourselves.

COME IN TODAY—We want you to see this planter whether you intend buying a planter now or not.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., under Act of Congress, March 2nd, 1874.

Conditions on the Isle of Man are almost ideal, but the improvement is attributed to the activities of the women. They seem to predominate over man in the Isle of Man.

Knowledge is power. Texas farmers have found out that wind mills furnish cheap and excellent power for various uses on the farm. Some of them are using it for ploughing, irrigation, etc.

It is noticed that about a score of precedents that have been broken by President Wilson are acknowledged to be great improvements over former conditions. That is only what is expected of a "forward-looking" man like Wilson.

A moving picture film entitled, "Satan is Here," is creating considerable excitement out West. Satan seems to be everywhere but no doubt he will obect to the publicity that the movies will give him. He prefers darkness rather than light.

A purser on White Saar Line made it known in New York a few days ago that he had just made his six hundredth trip across the Atlantic. He has taken many a risk but he feels safer on a ship than when he is stirring around in all sorts of places in New York.

Says the Jacksonville Times-Union: "Free wool will benefit only the manufacturers." The manufacturers know that, but it is hard for a lot of others to realize that free raw materials invariably benefit the wrong fellow. For that reason sugar refiners want raw sugar on the free list, iron and steel makers want iron ore on the free list, and so it goes. The government gets no revenue out of the free list but manufacturers get theirs by squeezing it out of the consumers of their protected manufactured products. Our tariff revisionists ought to bear that in mind and be careful not to revise the tariff in the interest of consumers of raw materials.

JOINT CITY AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT

The complex administrations of our various American State, municipal and county governments are piling up expenses, and, as a matter of course, that means taxes. The people in each county are taxed to pay their proportion of the expense of their State government, and they are subjected to a still larger tax to support their respective county governments. On top of that comes a third tax for the support of municipal governments. All these taxes are necessary, for we are obliged to have State, county and municipal governments, but do not our systems of government make it onerous upon the taxpayers? Isn't it an expensixe system or systems, when we come to think of it?

The great question these times is one of economy, and yet it is not so much one of economy as it is of the saving in administration. Our standard of civilization is calling for larger expenditures of public money all the time. Progress calls for that and the public has to keep up with progress, whether it comes high or not. We do not see much chance of economizing when the times demand better school houses, better schools, improved streets, sewerage, health measures, good roads and other features of civic progressiveness. Hence it seems that we will have to economize in our system of administration. Useless official positions will have to be abolished, and administrative work consolidated. That would be putting more work on officials, but it does not mean that they should be required to perform more work than they can do to the advantage of the public.

Taking our own governments in Wilmington and New Hanover county for example, we have often thought one official could do similar work for both the city and county, were it possible to consolidate such offices. In this connection, The Star this morning publishes an exceedingly interesting suggestion by Mr. M. S. Willard, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. He advocates the consolidation of several of the city and county departments, and his suggestions certainly will cause the citizens of the city and county to give serious consideration to the matters concerning which he speaks.

While Mr. Willard does not go into details concerning the economy of certain consolidations, he says it is estimated that a saving of from $25,000 to $50,000 can be made. He also believes that greater efficiency can be secured, so that consolidation would prove a two-fold advantage. He points out that Wilmington practically is New Hanover county, and yet we maintain two governments when probably one would do, or two working co-ordinately with fewer officials and at less expense would answer every purpose.

This question of simplifying and economizing government in the interest of the people, is one that is being given serious consideration throughout the United States. The necessity of economy is the father of commission government for cities and counties. The county of which the fine city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, is the county seat, proposes to adopt a commission form of government, and this idea of consolidation and economy is the cause of that movement there. The idea is spreading rapidly all over the country, and it is in the interest of the people. However, we must not overlook the main point, and that is that when we create offices with larger duties and elect officers with increased powers, we ought to elect men big enough for the office. This kind of progressiveness calls for more than the average kind of man, and it must be "all night" for the man who seeks the office unless he has the size. These offices with greater duties and scope to them call for men with the ability, capacity, efficiency and initiative that will keep them from making mistakes and misfits.

The city of Wilmington already has a commission government and has consolidated offices with this modern view of securing greater efficiency and economy, so that this agitation for more of it for the county and city is all the more interesting in view of the present campaign, for the nomination of a Mayor and five Councilmen. If we can't elect men of proven capacity and efficiency to take charge of the city, we couldn't trust ourselves to make choice of the higher talent for still greater powers. Right now we have all we can do to keep from picking men that will rattle around in the very important offices included in the consolidated government of this growing, thrifty and hefty city of Wilmington.

DEMOCRATIC PROTECTION FOR SHIPPING

In addition to free passage through the Panama canal for American coastwise shipping, it seems as if the shipping interests are to be looked after in another way by the Democratic Congress. Leastwise, the Atlanta Constitution says:

"The Democratic ways and means committee will, it is said, report in favor of admitting into this country goods carried in American bottoms at a lower rate than those brought in foreign bottoms. It is by no means certain that this method would not provoke tariff reprisals from the foreign governments whose vessels and goods are subjected to this discrimination—but anything is better than the present system, which has driven our flag from the seas. The best way of rehabilitating the merchant marine is to admit to American registry foreign-built ships. That will solve the problem at one stroke. Under the stimulus of such a plan there can be little doubt that the American flag would again dot the seas within a short course of time."

The Democrats oppose the Republican proposition of a subsidy for American shipping, but instead they are going to apply the Republican doctrine of tariff protection for the benefit of the shipping interests. Both plans mean government aid to shipping, about the only difference being in the method of doing it. A subsidy would mean the distribution of aid directly from the United States Treasury, while tariff reduction for the benefit of shipping would encourage imports and make business for American ships. If it did not increase imports and give American ships more cargoes from foreign countries, it would not aid the shipping of this country. Ships would have to do business in order to get the benefit of more traffic by means of the lower tariff.

The only benefit for American shipping by reason of the discriminating tariff proposed would be by reason of the increased traffic that it would bring about. However, that would increase our imports and bring about severe competition for home manufacturers. The greater import traffic the ships would do the greater would be the competition of foreign manufacturers with American manufacturers. Home manufacturers would bear the brunt of the lower tariff to encourage importation, but consumers would share every benefit that shipping would get from such an arrangement.

This proposition of a lower or discriminating tariff on imports brought over in American bottoms might enable American ships to monopolize the import-carrying of this country. Evidently, it would, for who would patronize foreign ships when the tariff rate would be lower when imports are brought over in American bottoms? However, all this depends on if—if maratime countries in Europe would not put a higher import duty on American exports taken hence in American ships our tariff plan might help American ships to monopolize import-carrying, but their tariff plan might shut our ships out of our export trade. It is not quite likely that commercial nations in Europe would let us get off with our tariff plan to help shipping, yet it certainly would greatly benefit the manufacturers of Europe whose trade with this country would be bound to increase. If it didn't shipping would get no benefit.

We hate the idea of a direct ship subsidy, yet we doubt the expediency of a discriminating tariff. If it is admitted that American ships cannot do an ocean-carrying business in competition with foreign ships, we presume some subsidy or tariff scheme will have to be adopted, but it will have to be worked so other nations won't be able to see through the game.

We certainly are offering American shipping all sorts of chances. We shut out foreign ships from our huge coastwise trade and enable American ships to monopolize it. We exempt American ships from canal tolls when they are trading from coast to coast, and now are proposing either a subsidy or a discriminating tariff to help American ships compete with foreign ships.

We don't seem to be much of a maratime nation. Something has "driven our flag from the ocean" and since the Republican party has been in power during the greater portion of 53 years, the blame probably can be traced to a tariff system that shut us in to ourselves and shut us out from other countries. The result is we have a very knotty problem on our hands—that of restoring the American merchant marine. Nevertheless, we have an immense shipping industry when we consider our enormous coastwise traffic. We rather think our shipping problem is one that we can not solve too hastilly.

MUZZLING THE PRESS

We view with more or less equanimity the disposition of Congress and the Legislatures of various States to muzzle the press, but it is curious to watch the drift towards public supervision of the press and about everything else. The press has been largely instrumental in securing public regulation and government ownership one way or another, so if the press is taken in hand and regulated or confiscated, it will look like a case of "chickens come home to roost."

Let us sit up and take notice for a little while. Governor Ralston, of the Democratic State of Indiana, has signed the proposed press-muzzling act passed by the Democratic Legislature of that State. As originally drawn, the bill made it a misdemeanor or a crime to print anything in a newspaper that is calculated to expose a man to ridicule or contempt in order to influence others to vote against him or to win support for another candidate. The press also was inhibited from opposing or advocating any measure before a primary election, convention or Legislature, but, of course, such nonsense as that lost out. Nevertheless, it has strict provisions against "falsely" holding up a legislator or "statesman" to ridicule in the public eye.

Even in its mildest form, the Indianapolis News considers that "the effect inevitably will be to expose every newspaper to the wrath of crooks with a grievance against it." All they have to do is to bring suit and allege the falsity of publication whether they are able to prove it or not, or whether newspaper publishers are able to prove that a published statement is not false or was published through error or upon misrepresentations furnished by parties who were considered responsible and trustworthy by editors and newsgatherers. The Indianapolis paper is convinced that as many prosecuting attorneys are the creatures of political gangs, it will not be difficult for offended politicians to find agents to proceed against newspapers that may have incurred their wrath. As a matter of fact, the News considers the law usless, since Indiana has libel laws, both civil and criminal that make additional statutes unnecessary.

While legislators consider that in passing such laws they are protecting the personal rights of citizens, they are likely to do injury to the public interests. The News points out they had the new law been in existence when the Legislature met it would have been unlawful for the press to have called public attention to the activity of certain politicians who were hanging out in Indianapolis to lobby against the public utilities bill that was clearly in the interest of the public. Making a fight in the interest of the people, the press paid its respects to the lobby, and says the Indianapolis paper: "Except for the publicity which it is now sought to destroy, the sleek gentlemen who fill the Indianapolis hotels while the Legislature is in session would run away with the State House."

Legislation like that is likely to do more injury to the public than to the press, but it will not deter the courageous press from expressing its honest convictions. It will make newspapers more careful of their facts, but when they are right they will do their duty to the public. If the law catches unscrupulous muckrakers it won't make so very much difference.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Another American millionaire has expatriated himself, practically, because of his disgust with the way in which the government over here is run. This is but another case of where Europe's gain is not our loss.—

The Republican newspapers find much to comfort them in the alleged discovery that Richard Olney and Dr. Eliot declined the ambassadorship to England because they were unwilling to trust Secretary Bryan's conduct of the State Department. What a pity it is that the fool-killer is not in commission.—New Orleans States.

The citizenship of Raleigh should by its acts and votes show that it will not be hampered and harassed and shockled to a blundering form of government by the use of negro votes. The registration of negroes by forces in opposition to the Commission form of government is an attack which should be resented and should cause the white people of this city to increase the majority for the commission form.—Raleigh News and Observer.

By way of a Spring poem in prose, Colonel Clawson, of the Wilmington Star takes his pen in hand and gets off this production: "The azure Ocean sweeps grandly along a picturesque Cape upon which Wilmington is situated in the midst of sub-tropical environs. The commercialized Cape Fear river flows along the nether side of the Cape and floats an ocean commerce of $65,000,000 a year. With the surf pounding miles of beautiful beach, and Sounds threading their way through a thousand channels in the midst of a verdant setting of waving marsh grass, we get only a glimpse of what constitutes just one of the charms of this magnificent sea-coast country." All of which is very pretty and quite true. Light another cigar and give us one on the 30-foot channel.—Charlotte Observer.

According to the Augusta Herald that city is preparing to go into the barge business and haul freight on the Savannah river between Savannah and Augusta. Steel barges covered and protected and drawing only about 36 inches are to be carried up the river by tow boats with powerful engines. When a line of barges has been landed in Augusta the tug or towboat will leave at once for Savannah where more barges are being loaded. By the time that cargo is carried up the first set will have been discharged and will be ready to return. In this way no time will be lost in loading and unloading as is experienced today in running the river steamers. The recent decision of the inter-State Commerce Commission in regard to rail, water and rail routes will help out the barges, according to the Augusta people. This sounds like a line in the inland waterway with barges and motor boats to propel them.—Savannah Press.

MISSIONARIES APPROVE.

President Wilson Congratulated Upon Policy Toward China.

(Washington Herald, March 27th.)

A number of missionaries to China called upon President Wilson yesterday to congratulate him on the policy of his administration toward China as defined in his statement refusing to ask American bankers to participate in the proposed six-power loan to the new republic.

These missionaries also expressed to the President their approval of his tender of the Chinese mission to John R. Mott, the Young Men's Christian Association worker, who has been so active in the Chinese field. The tender of this post to Mr. Mott, the missionaries declared, had been the source of great gratification to the whole missionary body at work in China, all of whom, it was stated, are convinced that Mott is the type of man best fitted to represent American interests in China, and further to cement the friendship already existing between the two countries.

The fact that President Wilson had selected Mr. Mott for minister to China, was pointed to by the missionaries as indication that this administration appreciates the part Christianity has taken in the development of the newly awakened pepole.

The hope was expressed that if it is found impossible to secure the services of Mr. Mott, every effort will be made by the President to secure for the position some other man who is prepared from long experience in China and a comprehensive knowledge of the present complicated situation there.

The President expressed his gratification when his selection of Mr. Mott for the ministership was approved. He suggested that his visitors as a body send a cablegram to Mr. Mott urging him to accept the appointment. The President said he was extremely anxious to have Mr. Mott become minister to China and that he was yet hopeful that he might accept the post. The missionaries promised to send the cablegram.

Among the missionaries who called upon the President were Lacy I. Moffett, Kiangyin; Arthur L. Sherman, Hangchow; Frank W. Bible, Hangchow; Calvin A. Caldwell, Taichow; Dr. George C. Worth, Kiangyin; Chas. W. Young, Pekin; James Vernon Latimer, Huchow, and Charles E. Beury, of Philadelphia, of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

SUFFERED AWFUL PAINS

For Sixteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moretown, Vermont.—"I was troubled with pains and irregularities for sixteen years, and was thin, weak and nervous. When I would lie down it would seem as if I was going right down out of sight into some dark hole, and the window curtains had faces that would peek out at me, and when I was out of doors it would seem as if something was going to happen. My blood was poor, my circulation was so bad I would be like a dead person at times. I had female weakness badly, my abdomen was sore and I had awful pains.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash and they certainly did wonders for me. My troubles disappeared and I am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. W. F. SAWYER, River View Farm, Moretown, Vermont.

Clifford, Iowa.—"I was troubled with female weakness, also with displacement. I had very severe and steady headache, also pain in back and was very thin and tired all the time. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am cured of these troubles. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. INA MILLEAGLE, Clifford, Iowa.

If you can keep the tariff rates protective,
And steel yourself against the foreign-made,
And also keep Democracy effective
By agitating free, untrammeled trade;
If you can check financial depredation
By putting down the trusts with iron hand,
And yet maintain the credit of the Nation
By keeping friends with Wall Street's vested band;
If you can mouth a speech on woman's voting
And win the favor of the surging sex,
Without inferring, saying or denoting
The terse de minimis non curat lex;
If you can please the many by selecting
A cabinet that won's displease the few,
And then persuade the few that you're expecting
To grant them—later—signal honors, too;
If you can keep the peace with foreign powers,
While roaring war to show you yearn to fight,
And take your wonted sleep of eight full hours
When duties keep you busy half the night;
If you can read what papers say about you,
And never think of libel when you read
And gather politicians sage about you
To follow where you, untried novice, lead;
If you can smile when greater men attack you,
And lose with grace where lesser men had won;
Why, four years hence the universe will back you,
For you'll have been Some President, my son!

SUPERIOR COURT CONVENES

Three Weeks' Term Begins In Afternoon With Judge Justice Presiding—Special Venire for Holly Case Today

Judge M. H. Justice, of Rutherfordton, convened Superior Court yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the grand jury was drawn and the charge delivered, after which the machinery of the court was started and two cases tried before the end of the session. Charles Turner, charged with larceny of a set of harness belonging to Dr. D. W. Chestnut, colored, and sentenced to 12 months on the roads in the Recorder's court, was tried and given the same sentence the Recorder gave him.

William Henry Devabe, a negro youth, for larceny of rings worth over $100, was given a year on the farm. The boy had been working at Third and Grace streets where Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith resided and the theft was committed in their apartments. They recovered the rings.

This morning J. C. Holly will be arraigned on the charge of arson, and a special venire of 300 men will be summoned. The charge is that Holly burned the Rock Springs Hotel, this city. Court was adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

Judge Justice, whose coming has caused no little speculation as to whether he was anything like Judge Carter, whose memory lives in Wilmington, or like several of the popularly described "easy" judges, early gave evidence of the fact that he wasn't overlooking anything when the case of H. H. Benson came up, the first one that claimed the attention of the court. Benson was sent over from the Recorder's court on the charge of wantonly shooting Garry Smith, negro, one Saturday night several weeks ago, making a slight flesh wound in the negro's leg. It was stated to the court that the shooting was accidental and that the negro did not wish to press the suit, but the judge called for light and after it was given, said he didn't think the Recorder made any mistake in sentencing Benson to six months on the roads, and he would look into the matter further.

Judge Justice made an excellent charge to the grand jury, full of practical, common sense and comment, containing nothing of the spectacular, and having no sensational feature. He talked about the wisdom of the jury system, pointing out that no newspaper or magazine critic of the system had ever yet suggested a better plan. He showed the wisdom of a dozen minds being set to work on a question of guilt or innocence, and told the grand jury what its duties were, namely to seek diligently for violations of the law, within the grand jury room and not outside of it. He had comment to make on the plain and unadorned virtue and honesty of North Carolina people, who, he said, were practically all alike, from the mountains, whence he comes, to the sea, where he is holding court. He said a college education was a good thing, and praised the increased educational efforts of the State to enlighten all, but he said that a college diploma need not bluff a plain man, for often fools had to be educated just as they had to be furnished with air and water, and declared that of all fools a fool with a college education was the biggest. This did not minimize the value of a college education.

The North Carolina home, said the judge, and the schools, gave every student the foundation of character, and in both, the supremest lesson was obedience to law and respect for authority. The charge was quietly wholesome and was listened to closely. Judge Justice is an elderly man and speaks with the wisdom that years of experience bring to a man.

In calling the docket yesterday entries of nol pros with leave were entered in the following cases:

Retailing—Charles Southerland, Jno. Davis, J. E. Little, John Reynolds, Jim Elkin, O. E. Merritt, T. O. Morris, J. D. Wright, James Emmett, J. W. Stokeley, E. D. Connor, Henry Reece, Jim Robeson, John Doe, alias "Lip," Frank Nasworthy, James Chapman, John Wyatt, D. M. Willis, W. S. Mintz, Mattie Allen, W. H. Millan, J. B. Smith, C. T. Smaw.

Disorderly houses—Nellie Johnson.

Larceny—Geo. Braford, one case; another case, called and failed, judgment absolute.

Nuisance—Chas. Oliver, J. H. Kuch, W. A. Dantrick, May Brown, Tom Blackburn, Billie Pringle.

Usury—C. T. Smaw.

Retailing (alias capias)—Will Carr.

Murder—John Wilson, Rachael Pollock. They have been located.

House-breaking—Randolph Gibson.

The petit jury which sat yesterday was E. P. Bailey, W. R. Vann, F. S. Miller, J. O. Sharp, C. W. Parker, Henderson Cole, F. J. Mohr, M. Russ, W. T. Farries, H. C. Knowles, A. L. Mincey and Jno. H. King.

The grand jury, with James M. Stevenson as foreman, and in care of Officer H. R. Smith, is composed of J. M. Wiggins, J. R. Nance, B. K. Merritt, W. H. Darden, Jr., Geo. H. Ward, W. M. Hankins, H. M. Bishop, Z. E. Murrell, Robert Scott, W. A. Woods, A. T. Parker, D. F. Brittain, Jr., O. P. Corbett, E. L. Smith, T. B. Prease, H. E. O'Keef and D. D. Cameron.

A nol pros with leave was taken in the case of J. M. Leasia charged with assault on Mr. Jerry Carew, Hon. Jno. D. Bellamy stating that his client had paid all costs and about $250 to Mr. Carew, to cover the expense of hospital treatment, etc. Solicitor Shaw signified his willingness to quash the indictment and Judge Justice agreed.

The case against Former Deputy Sheriff J. W. Brown and Della Clements, colored, charged with living together in illegal relations, was nol prossed. The solicitor stated that had made an investigation of the charge and in his opinion there was nothing to warrant him in going to trial with the case.

Deserter Arrested

Patrolman J. O. Bullard yesterday arrested Joe Furrest at Fourth and Taylor streets, on the charge of being a deserter from the army. He confessed that he was the man wanted. It is stated that he deserted from Fort Caswell. Officer Bullard will claim the $50 standing reward for the capture of a deserter from the army.

THE CONSOLIDATION IDEA

Mr. M. S. Willard Suggests Several Other Departments of City and County Government Might be Under One Head

Making bold to suggest the consolidation of more of the departments of the city and county governments by placing them under one administration, pointing out the advantages both in the way of increased efficiency and in the saving of money, Chairman M. S. Willard, of the Board of County Commissioners, gave out a statement yesterday which is calculated to make the citizens of the county do some serious thinking between now and the convening of the special session of the Legislature next year.

Recently several citizens have suggested the advisability of agitating the consolidation of the city and county governments in their entirety, but apparently were not sufficiently interested to give their views for the consideration of the general public. Mr. Willard is, therefore, the first to "break the ice" in this direction. His statement, which will doubtless be read with the greatest interest, follows:

"At this time when the minds of so many people are directed towards the object of securing greater efficiency in governmental affairs of a large nature, is it not well for us to consider matters of local interest and see if there are not certain things which might be done which would be of as great moment to us as changes in State or National affairs?

"The recent consolidation of the health departments of the city and county promises to result in a considerable saving in money and a considerable increase in efficiency, and points the way to other consolidations which would undoubtedly produce similar results in other departments of city and county administration.

"Let no one suppose that any suggestions made in this article are for the purpose of securing to the Board of County Commissioners enlarged powers or increased authority. This would not necessarily result and as far as the writer is concerned he is ready at any time to surrender his position if by the adoption of any of these suggestions the desired results can be obtained.

"While considering the ideas which will be advanced let us bear constantly in mind the peculiar conditions which exist with us. New Hanover county is the smallest in area in the State. It contains only one city and that city one of the largest in the State, and there is no possibility that there ever can be more than one city in the county. The city of Wilmington contains 85 per cent of the taxable values of the county and of the persons paying poll tax 78 per cent of the number live in Wilmington. The extension and development of the suburbs makes a much larger proportion of both taxpayers and acreage practically a part of the city. With such conditions existing the departments of health, of roads and streets, of charities, of schools, of police, of tax-listing and collecting, are so nearly correlated that under separate administration there are continually arising conditions which cause friction and annoyance and call for needless duplication of office with their attendant expenses.

"The establishment of the Recorder's court for the entire county and the consolidation of the health departments points the way for the still further development of this idea. This article is intended simply to draw attention to the subject and to create some interest in it and possibly to arouse some discussion. If time permits and inclination continues I hope at some time to show in detail what advantages will be gained by the further consolidation of several other departments of the city and county, and how the idea is being worked out in different parts of the county. In the little discussion of the subject which has been held with persons competent to judge and in a position to do so, there is opportunity for the saving of a vast sum by the adoption of up-to-date, business-like methods in our county and city affairs. This sum has been variously estimated from $25,000 to $50,000 a year and makes the matter one well worth careful consideration. No other community in the State is in position to avail itself so easily and so profitably of the suggested changes. Such changes cannot be effected without legislative action but it is well to consider carefully the reasons for and against such propositions and it will require considerable time for proper consideration to be given them by the public."

VISITED DUTCH COLONIES

Jonkheer J. Loudon, Minister of The Netherlands, Spent Sunday in Wilmington and Vicinity—Well Pleased.

Jonkheer J. Loudon, of Washington, D. C., Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary to the United States from the Netherlands, and Madame Loudon spent from Saturday until Sunday evening as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacRae, of this city. Arriving in the city Saturday evening the visitors were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. MacRae, on Market street, until Sunday morning, when they were taken for a visit to several colonies of the Carolina Trucking Development Company, where Jonkheer Loudon found many Hollanders pleasantly situated.

Besides the distinguished visitors, Mr. and Mrs. MacRae had as their guests on the trip to the colonies several Wilmington people, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Delano, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. H. Gouverneur, Mr. and Mrs. C. VanLeuven, Mr. E. N. Clark. They went from here to Castle Haynes in automobiles and after visiting the colony there they went aboard a special train furnished by the Atlantic Coast Line for a trip to Van Eeden colony. On the return they visited the St. Helena colony, which is composed entirely of Italians. The Van Eeden colony was established a little over a year ago and has 25 or 30 Holland families living there. At Castle Haynes are a number of families of Hollanders, some having lived there for four years and others for six years.

The party returned to Wilmington at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and Mr. and Mrs. Loudon left on the 6:45 train for Washington.

Mr. Loudon expressed himself as being very much interested in the colonization project and it was inferred from his remarks that he is pleased and satisfied with the future possibilities of the development of colonization in this section. He is a man in an influential position and his opinion in a matter of this kind is of great importance and would have much weight, especially with Hollanders in this country and abroad. The Hollanders are of a class of people that make the best citizens, as is abundantly demonstrated in the several families living in the colonies that have been established near Wilmington. It is hoped that more Hollanders will see fit to cast their lot in this section of the South.

HOW'S BUSINESS.

Postoffice Receipts Say It's Good—The Parcels Post.

How's business?

It has suffered none and has made some gains over the same quarter last year, according to postoffice receipts. And they are barometers that may be depended upon. According to figures compiled at the close of business last night by Postmaster Thos. E. Wallace, the receipts for the quarter were $35,017.10, which is largely in excess of any quarter in the history of the Wilmington postoffice. The increase over the same quarter last year, which was a phenomenally heavy one, is 5 per cent. And this increase, says Mr. Wallace, is not due to the parcel post. The receipts from the parcel post at the Wilmington office for the quarter were only $1,714.05. This is considered very light as the number of outgoing packages, Mr. Wallace says, were nothing like as heavy as the incoming mail in the parcel post department of the office. The receipts at the Wilmington office, all told, for March were $11,807.41.

THE SEMINOLE IN PORT.

Crew of Cutter Practicing at Target. No Call for Help.

The revenue cutter Seminole returned to her station early yesterday morning after a few days spent at target practicing with small arms at Smith's Island near the mouth of the Cape Fear. During the cutter's absence from her station there was no call of distress from any vessel, and but one cruise was made outside. The Winter's work of the "Good Samaritan" is over and the most important item on her programme now is the target practice, which begins with kindergarten work and ends with the larger guns on deck. The crew and vessel are in fine condition and she last night was a-throb with life.

RECORDER'S MONDAY HARVEST

Numerous Cases of Comedy and Some of Near-Tragedy—When a Woman is Drunk and Ingratitude of Negroes.

Always more or less interesting, the Recorder's court Mondays hardly ever fails to develop something of more than usual interest, and yesterday proved not an exception. The outstanding features were of a forensic character. Wm. J. Bellamy, Esq., defending a negro woman who had been arrested for being drunk and disorderly, made a speech of considerable "human interest" in which he discussed the weatherbeaten subject of "when is a man (or woman, in this case) drunk", and he added to the fund of popular knowledge.

Brooke G. Empie, Esq., prosecuting a negro for larceny, gave a dissertation on the subject of the ingratitude of the colored brother after the white man has "paid him out" of trouble.

In the case Mr. Bellamy defended Pearl Gilliam, colored, was arrested by Plainclothesman Leon George for loud and boisterous profanity, so loud that the officer could hear it from 10th and Market, where Pearl was, to Front and Water, where Mr. George was. There was no evidence that the woman, though under the influence of whiskey, had violated the law, until arrested. The attorney contended that the officer, in the absence of any violation of the law, and with no other excuse than that she was on the street at 2 A. M., had no right to approach her and arrest her. He went so far as to argue that even after she cursed the policeman, she had not violated the law, saying that one could "'cuss" a policeman or other person, for all the various things that any sailor could invent, and still not violate the law unless the "cusser" was loud and boisterous, and disturbed the peace of the community. As to the question of the woman being drunk, the lawyer said there were varying criterions guiding various judges of drunkenness, and he read several definitions recently given in the courts:

"He was not drunk, neither was he sober; he was just 'market' fresh."

"Neither drunk nor sober, but lukewarm."

"I might have been drunk if I had had five more pints, I only had six that morning."

"I was pretty middling, I had had 17 beers, but I knew what I was doing."

"I was sober enough to know that I was drunk."

"Not drunk is he, who from the floor Can rise again and drink once more; But drunk is he who prostrate lies And cannot either drink or rise."

The quotations moved the big crowd of negroes and the sprinkling of whites to laughter, and the Recorder sentenced Pearl to three months' resirence on the county farm.

Mr. Empie was retained by Mr. C. E. Scherer to assist in the prosecution of Willie Kea, too large and old for the diminutive, who was charged with stealing a pistol from Mr. Scherer on the 9th day of July, 1912. Kea had been working for Mr. Scherer in his store. On the 4th of July the negro got in trouble and Mr. Scherer stood for $25 of fine and costs. Then, according to the prosecution, the negro repaid this kindness by swiping the gun and going to Norfolk. Recently he came back and was arrested. Mr. Empie declared that ingratitude among negroes was one of the inexplicable things. The more you do for them, he declared, the more they will "do" you. If you "pay one out", he will take every dollar of his wages you pay him and put it where it will help anybody but you; if you stand by him, he takes your property; if you advance money to keep him from punishment, he will say "bye-bye" and depart. The lawyer declared that he had paid them out time and again, until he had over $700 on his books, and they never called to reimburse him.

The negro claimed that he paid back $17 of the $25, and had receipts to show it; and as for stealing the gun, that weapon was always kept in the safe, and not so much as a pin could have been stolen from the store without the thief being detected. He got three months on the roads.

A case was sent up from Justice Harriss' court yesterday morning that was a bit out of the ordinary. Rob Wallace, white, was charged with cruelly assaulting his wife, Lula Wallace, of Delgado. The warrant was sworn out by the woman's brother, L. V. Hester. The case was left open till this morning for judgment, the defendant making no resistance and the court ordering a verdict of guilty after hearing Mrs. Wallace make a brief statement of their marital infelicities. She was a pitiable sight, with both eyes blackened and a wound on the top of her head. She said that her husband had never before struck her, but that Tuesday night of last week he choked her, dragging her out of bed; that Saturday night he hit her once, she knew not what with, that she saw only a hair brush and a whiskey bottle; that she lost consciousness and came to at the home of a neighbor, how she got there she didn't know; that he told her he was "going to end the tale" that night, and that there "would be two graves next day." Her husband doesn't have the appearance of a man who, at himself, would inflict such injuries on a woman who was his wife. It is asserted that their troubles were not all brought out in the hearing, and besides the case of assault, Justice Harriss will have a case in which he will require a peace bond of Wallace, or send him to jail, this being independent of the result of the other case before the Recorder.

Other cases were: Lizzie Johnson, colored, disorderly, $10 and costs; Carl Jones, colored, water wagon accident, $5 and costs; Wm. Sheppard, speeding, plead guilty, costs; W. W. Hill, plain celebrating, $5 and costs; Charles Raleigh, colored, assault on James Jones, not guilty, and on an old count, the defendant stated that he had settled with Justice Bornemann, and he was instructed to bring a paper to that effect; Henry Gibson, for shooting at Ed Larkins, both colored, will be heard today. The police say that after the shot, Larkins came running down one of the outlying streets like the wind, feeling himself the while to see if he was hit. Asked if he was hit, he said he didn't know. He wasn't. Willie Hall, affray, being but 10 years old, was discharged; Hunsey Mack, a negro woman, was found not guilty of disturbing the peace; the Greenberg and Kerman boys, mere children charged with larceny, will be heard in the morning.

In the W. G. Baldwin case, tried Saturday, the Recorder sentencing Baldwin to 12 months for shooting Mary Stewart, and to 12 months for assault with deadly weapon on Jim McIntyre, colored, it was announced yesterday the Recorder had no jurisdiction in the first named indictment, and it would be remanded to Justice Harriss to be sent by him to Superior Court; and the McIntyre case was left open till this morning.

Court was held in police headquarters, owing to the convening of Superior Court, and Louis J. Poisson, Esq., prosecuted in the absence of Geo. L. Peschau, Esq., who was out of the city.

CONCERT LAST NIGHT.

Enjoyable Entertainment at Boys' Brigade Well Attended.

To have the pleasure of attending a song recital such as is afforded the musical centers often but smaller places seldom—to sit under the spell of a voice attuned to notes of the sweetest harmony—to listen intently to faultless interpretation of the old as well as the new songs; to have the privilege of hearing interpreted those compositions for the piano which have become classics through hearsay largely, such was the rare privilege and pleasure afforded a fairly large audience at the Boys' Brigade armory last evening when Mr. Myron W. Whitney, the superb basso, assisted by Miss Marguerite Valentine, pianist-accompanist, appeared in a programme which for variety and beauty has seldom been rendered before a Wilmington audience.

Those who heard Mr. Whitney last season when here realized what was in store for them and they were not disappointed. With a voice of wide range, thoroughly under control at all times, highly cultivated and most pleasing, singing with an ease and manner that only few possess, his each apearance was eagerly awaited and many were the regrets when the last number was finally sung.

The first number, a group of songs by Mr. Whitney, opened with the "Bedouin Love Song," (McLaughlin), which served to show his superb voice to its fullest. While possibly not as full of fire as that of the same name, but by Pinsuti, it had the added quality of newness and lost nothing by comparison. In direct contrast, dainty "Benny McCree" (Moier), with the tenderness of the Scotch in it, left a desire to hear more which was later satisfied by his re-appearance rendering, among other songs, "Ah, Love But a Day" (Beach), and "When Love is Done" (Turnbull) and "Amore, Amore" (Tirendelli) and "Chanson" (Bizet), the last two in French fully satisfying his hearers that he was equally at home in the foreign as well as his native tongue.

As both soloist and accompanist, Miss Valentine, takes rank with the best we have ever heard. While all things are largely judged by comparison, we can only say that as both she is comparable to Romayne Symmons, who was heard here last season with Mr. Whitney and to our mind he was par excellence.

With a touch of exquisite delicacy where such is intended and with a fire of enthusiasm, with an execution capable of all demands, she was easily a co-equal with Mr. Whitney who, with an accompanist of less ability, would have suffered much. Miss Valentine appeared three times on the programme and in each a group of solos. The charming "Balade" (Brahms), the fiery "Arabesque" (Loschetizy), the beautifully executed "Nocturne" for left hand (Scriabune), each stamped her as an artist of the first rank and one destined to be heard from again in the future.

Taken altogether, it was a concert the like of which is seldom given here and makes us only wish that more of its kind could be given that our people might realize and appreciate the uplifting tendency which this of all arts—music—so rightfully inspires.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE LAW.

State-Wide Measure Effective Today. Limits Amount of Booze.

The State-wide search and seizure law passed by the present Legislature becomes effective today. The purpose of the measure is to rid the State of "blind tigers". With the laws already on the statute books in connection with the National Webb-Kenyon bill, which prohibits the shipping of whiskey into dry territory for illegal sale, it is believed that prohibition in this State will come mighty near prohibiting. The search and seizure law is designed to limit the amount of intoxicants one has on hand at one time. The law makes it prima facie evidence that one is engaged in the business of selling the stuff when he has on his premises at any one time more than a gallon of whiskey, three gallons of wine, or five gallons of beer. The local officers say they will start out today to rigidly enforce the provisions of the law.

JOHN GALLOWAY ARRESTED

"Chick," Alias "Bad Yellow," Apprehended in Norfolk—Officer Sent

Chief of Police Fowler yesterday received a telegram from the Norfolk, Va., police to the effect that John Galloway, alias "Chick," alias "Bad Yellow," had been arrested there and was being held for the officers here, who want him in connection with the murder of Richard Blount last December at Nobles' Neck. Constable J. H. Davis was sen to Norfolk last night by Sheriff Cowan to get Galloway, and he will return with him on the late train tonight. Charles Brown, alias "Black Cat," is in jail, charged with complicity in the murder of Blount, and the case will come up this week. Galloway is reported as having said that he saw Blount killed by "Black Cat" and another negro. Galloway is regarded as an all-round bad man, and besides this affair of Blount's killing, he is wanted for carrying concealed weapons and for assault with a deadly weapon.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Weigh yourself before commencing to use Samose, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful sale on this preparation since first introduced in Wilmington and the remarkable results following its use have made J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., such enthusiastic believers in the great value of Samose that they give their personal guarantee to refund the money if Samose will not make thin people fat and restore strength and health to those who use it.

This is a strong guarantee, but they have seen so many of their customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons become plump and well solely through the use of Samose, that they feel they cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good rich blood, tones up the weakened system, helps to assimilate the food and makes the user plump, well and rosy.

HOW TO GAIN HEALTHY FLESH

J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., Advise Thin Folks to Use Samose

While thinness may not be a disease, yet it is in reality a condition that needs attention. Under the nourishing power of Samose healthy natural flesh will soon be attained.

This remarkable flesh-forming food strengthens the system generally and builds up the fleshy tissues so that good, natural plumpness results.

An ounce of flesh is better than a pound of theory. J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., believe that the best possible demonstration of the flesh-forming powers of Samose is to have it tried by their customers and to induce them to use it, they offer to pay for the Samose in case it does not give satisfaction. No stronger proof than this can be given of their faith in it. (They have seen hundreds who were weak, thin and scrawny, become plump, robust and strong, solely through the use of Samose. Ten days' treatment, 50 cents.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT

Good healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food, together with natural action of the organs and assimilation. Nine people out of ten, in order to weigh as much as they ought and be perfectly healthy should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food and health restorer. Weigh yourself before commencing to use these little tablets and see how your weight increases from week to week. Large box for 50 cents.

Samose does not contain a particle of starch or pepsin nor is it any nauseating preparation such as is usually recommended to make people fat, and which does not build up good, healthy tissues. Samose has valuable flesh-forming properties, tones up and strengthens the whole system, helps the food that is eaten to be assimilated in a natural manner and absolutely restores health to all the organs.

If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results from Samose, J. Hicks Bunting Drug Co., will refund your money without any quibbling.

"In the Shadows."

The song is beautifully illustrated and Harry Harris will sing it at the Grand Theatre today. (Advertisement.)

..Theatrical..

The offering at the Academy of Music last night was Billy "Single" Clifford and company, in "The Girl, the Man and the Game." The audience was one of the smallest seen at the opera house this season, but it was a very appreciative one, as was indicated by the round after round of applause. A number of songs made distinct hits. Billy Clifford, the star, sustained his reputation as one of the most popular entertainers on the American stage. He was surrounded by a capable company an dthe production seemed to please all in attendance.

Biggest of All Events

The management of the Academy of Music now makes the biggest announcement of the season. It is heralded that on the 16th of the present month the noted beauty Valeska Surratt will be at the Academy in a brilliant, mammoth production of the wonderful musical concoction, "The Kiss Waltz." It will be the greatest event of the season and it goes without saying that the playhouse will be packed to its very capacity. It is a notable affair that the Academy management is justly proud of and which cost a big guarantee in order to obtain.

"The Kiss Waltz" is said to be the largest and most beautiful musical amusement ever produced at the New York Casino. Six Pullman cars, we are told, are required to transport its labyrinth of scenic and costume detail, one massive car being exclusively taken up with Miss Surratt's celebrated stage dresses. She is said to wear no less than 11 distinct gowns in the two acts of "The Kiss Waltz."

Big Day at Bijou.

Yesterday was a red letter day in the history of the popular Bijou. Those who were there—and the theatre was crowded—witnessed one of the most wonderful and most expensive bills ever offered anywhere, headed by a special two-reel release film. Yet today is going to be just as great in every way and, of coures, another immense crowd will be on hand to see the show.

The star of today's film bill will be the Vitagraph's latest and very best, "While She Powdered Her Nose," and it will not present only one, but will offer two big celebrities in the stellar roles. Both Misses Florence Turner and Lillian Walker will appear, which will immensely delight their host of devotees in Wilmington. Another remarkable feature film today is Selig's allegorical story of "The Sands of Time". It tells a great, intensely interesting story of Father Time as he warns a wayward young woman that the sands are flowing and Eternity is near.

"Love Before Ten" is a comedy creation on today that is also a great novelty. Remember, too, that the Bijou is always delightfully comfortable.

Four Pictures at the Grand.

Four pictures will again be the offering at the Grand Theatre today and the bill will be one of the very best of the week. In addition to the pictures Harry Harris will sing that beautiful ballad, "In the Shadows," which is beautifully illustrated and which will prove indeed a feature.

The pictures will be featured by a great Lubin, "Mr. Jinks Buys a Dress," and "Jim, the Burglar." The one is a rip-roaring comedy and the other is a sensational drama that will cause the spectator to sit up and take notice. Then there will be another feature, the first presentation of an Essanay, "The Pathway of Years." It is a powerful dramatic subject of merit and it teaches a moral lesson that will make an impression upon the audiences at each performance. In addition to these three there will be still a fourth and the always pleasing music by the orchestra will add to the general effect of the performances.

New Church at Council's.

A gentleman arriving here yesterday from Council's, on the Seaboard road, told of the recent completion of a handsome new Baptist church for that community. The new edifice cost about $1,800. While it is now being used, the building has not yet been dedicated, but the dedicatory service will be held some time in the near future. Among the leading members of the church are Messrs. W. E. Flake, Luther Squires and E. J. Grimsley, Sr.

Prank of Picaninnies.

Last night six little negro boys, ranging in age from 7 to 9 or 10 years, stretched a rope across the sidewalk on Hanover street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, and William Chadwick in passing, tripped on it and sustained rather painful injuries. The police gathered in the youngsters and held them at headquarters until their parents came and were recognized for the appearance of the boys this morning.

SEASONS

Any old time is Springtime; if you are willin' to help it along;
Any old day is holiday, if you'll furnish the laughter and song.
The birds can't be singin' always an' the blossoms can't bloom without rest,
But there's hope an' there's light, an' the sky seems bright fur the feller that's doin' his best.
Any old time is Winter, if you're willing to see it that way,
The frost in the heart is the frost that chills till the world is dull an' gray.
You may shiver by day an' be shiverin' still as you turn to a restless couch,
For the days go slow through the ice an' snow fur the feller that's nursin' a grouch.

RAILWAY SANITATION

Advance Has Been Marked—Cane for Hygienic Principles

The advance of the railways of the country in applied sanitation has been marked. When one recalls the conditions allowed to exist in railway cars 20 years ago the present state of cleanliness is comparatively satisfactory. The railways are indeed to be commended for their gradual introduction of hygienic regulations that keep their cars, in spite of the numbers of people who travel in them every day, in a state that is not likely to endanger health. There remains, however, one phase of railway sanitation that will soon have to be dealt with. Though it is a difficult phase, there is no doubt that improvement of present conditions must come without delay. It would seem to be better for the railways to take up the problem of their own initiative rather than be forced into it by legal regulation. This is the present mode of disposing of the sewage of trains. In former years when population was less dense and when trains were not nearly so frequent and crowded, it was perhaps not so much to be deprecated that the railways should scatter sewage over the right-of-way. Now that railways cross thickly populated tracts of territory, and express trains pass through towns of considerable size without stopping, the crude disregard of hygiene in this matter is entirely out of keeping with present day sanitary science, particularly as the railway rule is to have the toilets locked only during the times of stopping at stations, which gives opportunity for the scattering of offensive material, distinctly dangerous to health, even on the streets of towns. Railways frequently cross streams that are connected with water supplies, and the present custom may well prove a source of contamination of drinking water. It will not be long, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, before the general public wakes up to this serious danger. Now that we are carefully disposing of sewage in connection with our cities and are no longer allowing ordinary waterways to be contaminated as formerly, protection of our smaller streams will surely come to be felt as a necessity.

UP-TO-DATE TEA-TESTING.

A remarkably simple method of testing the purity of imported teas has been adopted by the United States government. The testing is done with the aid of an ordinary table knife and a sheet of white paper, upon which a small quantity of the tea to be tested is placed. The tea is then rubbed in with the knife. When the leaves have been reduced to a powder the paper is dusted clean with a brush made of common bristles and its surface examined with the naked eye or a microscope. If the tea is artificially colored, little spots or streaks of vivid Prussian blue will appear in the fibre of the paper. These stains are so distinct in their coloring that they cannot possibly be confused with any other stain that may be in the paper.—London Globe.

Clean your sinks with GOLD DUST

No place in the home gathers grease as quickly as the kitchen sink. Gold Dust washing powder, however, has the peculiar quality of dissolving and cutting grease and if, after each dishwashing, a suds is made in the dishpan with warm water and Gold Dust, and the sink thoroughly rinsed with these suds, the last particle of dirt and grease will be removed.

The sink pipe will never become clogged with grease if Gold Dust and plenty of hot water are used for washing the sink morning and evening.

COTTON MARKET WAS EASIER

Close Was Barely Steady, With Last Prices Showing a Net Loss of From 7 to 9 Points—Favorable Weather Report

New York, March 31.—Reports of more favorable weather in the South gave the cotton market rather an easier tone today and the close was barely steady, with last prices showing a net loss of from 7 to 9 points. The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points in response to disappointing Liverpool cables, a better weather map and realizing by some of the last week's buyers.

There still appeared to be some nervousness with reference to March contracts, but remaining March shorts were evidently able to show a premium of from 50 to 60 points over May and after some little early irregularity the market turned easier on favorable weather predictions. Prices worked off to a net loss of between 11 and 12 points during the middle of the day, but aggressive offerings were restricted at this level by continued apprehensions of floods in the Mississippi valley and reports of continued steadiness in the Southern spot markets. Some of the earlier selling may have been inspired by a fear that the death of J. P. Morgan would have an unsettling effect in financials, but the action of the stock market afforded no ground for uneasiness in this respect, and this probably accounted for some of the covering during the afternoon. At any rate, prices rallied some 7 or 8 points from the lowest. This improvement was not fully maintained, owing to renewed pressure in the late trading and reports that April spot commitments were especially small. The long range weather forecast indicated higher temperatures this morning, and normal rainfall in the cotton belt.

Spot, quiet. Middling uplands, 12.60; do. gulf, 12.85. Sales, 6,200.

Cotton futures closed barely steady.

SAVE MILLIONS TO FARMERS

Plan to Add Huge Sum to Prices of Crops

"Next month is to be a memorable one in the history of Southern agriculture," declared Dr. Albert P. Bourlands, to the Washington Post. "Plans are matured, which will be taken up at a conference of Southern farmers to be held at Richmond, April 16th to 18th, that will add not less than $250,000 a year to the prices which they receive for their produce. This addition of income will be secured through co-operative marketing agencies, by means of which they will be enabled to obtain better prices from the middleman.

"The total farm value of all Southern crops now amounts to $2,500,000,000 a year, and as the organization of co-operative marketing agencies in other parts of the country has resulted in the agriculturists receiving 12 to 15 per cent more for their produce than before, the estimate that similar agencies will add $25,000,000 to the farm value of Southern crops is at least conservative.

"This is the first Southern conference on marketing held. Owing to the novelty of the proposition only those associations which can be formed and managed with little or no expense will be taken up at first. Such associations include those for marketing eggs, vegetables, fruit, grain, and livestock. In future years, as the movement grows, we shall try the establishment of co-operative buying associations, by means of which Southern farmers can easily save another $250,000,000 yearly out of middlemen's profits."

MARKET LITTLE DISTURBED

Death of J. P. Morgan Had No Effect on Stocks As the Street Was Prepared for the News From Rome—Great Resistance

New York, March 31.—The stock market was little disturbed by the death of J. P. Morgan. The news from Rome was the overshadowing feature of the day in the financial district, but its effect was largely sentimental. Reports during the last few weeks had prepared the Street for the news which came today, and it was received an hour before the opening of the market.

There was ample time for protective measures. It was assumed from the outset that the market would be kept well in hand, but the degree of resistance shown was surprising to traders. The moderate decline of Americans in London before the opening here gave a fairly accurate estimate of the effect on securities of Morgan's death. Declines of a point or less were general, but before trading had been under way 15 minutes the list rallied strongly. Steel, the chief Morgan stock, was fairly active, but its decline was confined to a point. By the end of the first hour losses were virtually made up.

The higher level was not maintained, however, the list going back to the low point before noon. Tightening of call money to the highest rate of the year was a depressing influence. Governor Sulzer's approval of the "full crew" bill, which is expected to increase expenses of railroads in this State considerably, was another factor. Prices rose again in the afternoon, but became dull. Call money touched 7 per cent. It was reported that Berlin was renewing its bids in this market for money, offering 8½ and 9 per cent. for 30 days funds.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales stocks, today, 398,100 shares.

The secretions from my kidneys were highly colored and filled with sediment and caused me much distress when being voided. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a box from Bellamy's Drug Store and began using them according to directions. They acted just as represented and drove away all the symptoms of the complaint. I am pleased to confirm my former public endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills."

What's the Price of a Good Suit of Clothes?

TWENTY-FIVE dollars. You can buy our clothes for less than that—$20, $18; you can pay more than that—we have very fine clothes at $30, $35, $40. But $25 is a good average price; most men who appreciate good quality and style in clothes, good tailoring and fit, are willing to pay as much as $25.

HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX

suits at $25 will surprise you; particularly if you've been accustomed to going to a custom tailor to have clothes made to measure; more particularly if you've patronized the so-called low-priced tailor; most particularly if you're getting what you think are made-to-measure clothes at $25 or less.

You'll get all-wool fabrics; trimmings, linings and other materials of a high grade; tailoring of a very high order—the things that make a suit wear well, and keep shapely. You'll get the value of best style and standards and originality of design; you'll get clothes that fit you well.

And you'll gain from $10 to $20, either in greater value at the price; or lower price for similar value.

Better see how true this is; $25 is a price you can afford, and you'll say so when you see the clothes. Better come and look at the new Spring styles.

munificence to the extent of $1,500,000, with which was built the medical school in Boston. Trinity College was given $250,000 for a laboratory.

If the accounts of Mr. Morgan could be seen, it is said, they would disclose the names of numerous persons whose fortunes, lost in investment in Morgan securities, were returned to them. Notable among these, it is stated, would be the name of a noted jurist who, after he had ceased active work lost nearly his all in investments made, as he supposed, on the advice of Mr. Morgan.

As a patron of art, Mr. Morgan was as famous as in the world of finance. His expenditures for objects of virtu were boundless. It was only necessary for him to see some painting, statuary or other work of art that struck his artistic fancy, and he would buy it. The price to be paid nearly always was a secondary consideration to possessing an art treasure. His collections in the Metropolitan Museum of Art has been estimated by connoisseurs to be worth $50,000,000. In his private museum next to his home are paintings, tapestries, carvings, books, manuscripts, bronzes and antique gold and silverware valued at many millions of dollars. In his collection of early editions are 32 Caxtons valued at $1,250,000.

Among some of the objects of art and the prices Mr. Morgan paid for them are Raphael's "Colonna Madonna," $500,000; the Fragonard Panels, depicting the love affairs of the Countess du Barry, $500,000; set of Gothic tapestries, $500,000, and the Pfungst collection of bronzes, $200,000, and Gainsborough's famous painting of the Duchess of Devonshire, $200,000. In this collection are the works of such masters as Rembrandt, Rubens, Velasquez, Van Dyke, Reynolds. Franz Hals, Millet and Turner.

Morgan's Business Career.

John Pierpont Morgan started his business career half a century ago on the board of directors of a large maritime insurance company. He secured the position through the influence of his wealthy father. For a year young Morgan attended the directors' meetings, but never opened his mouth except to vote.

The president of the company told the elder Morgan that nothing could be done with his son, who seemed to take little interest in business. Young Morgan, however, all the time was laying his plans for his first railroad consolidation, which, when completed, established his standing in Wall Street as the only man who ever got the better of Jay Gould.

The president of the insurance company had mistaken taciturnity for indolence. The soubriquet of "Sphinx of Wall Street", later was applied to the man who at first was believed to have been without business acumen, but later became the supreme head of the finances of the American continent.

Morgan's control over men and money was the dominant keynote of his life.

Others perhaps were wealthier than Morgan, but he now commanded his wealth and that of others.

At the height of his power he is said to have controlled $9,000,000,000.

In addition to finance, art, literature, philanthropy and sport all came under his influence. His prestige was not confined to his own country—kings and emperors, and even Popes were wont to call him into consultation.

Mr. Morgan came from an old New England family which dates back in this country to 1636. He was born in wealth and his father, Junius Spencer Morgan, left him $10,000,000. J. S. Morgan had accumulated his fortune in the dry goods business with Levi P. Morton and later as an associate of George Peabody, merchant, banker and philanthropist.

J. Pierpont Morgan was born April 17th, 1837, in a modest, red brick cottage in Hartford, Conn. As a youngster his tendency to write poetry gave him the nickname of "Pip". When he was 14 Morgan was sent to Boston to the English high school. He showed a particular bent for mathematics, but had no gifts indicative of unusual mental power. Probably his first attempt at finance took place in Boston. The school teacher gave him money with which to buy erasers. Young Morgan was gone for a long time. When he returned he handed the teacher the erasers and also some change.

"What's this for?" asked the teacher.

"I gave you just enough to buy the erasers at the price I have always paid for them."

"Oh," replied young Morgan, "I went around town until I could find a place to buy them at wholesale."

For two years after graduating from the Boston high school Mr. Morgan was a student at Goettingen, Germany. At 21 he embarked upon his career as a banker.

Of J. P. Morgan, financier, and of his achievements all the world knows. Few men have been more widely fearey, yet more generally trusted. Those men who met him only in a business way saw a man rough, emphatic and repellant, inaccessible as the Emperor of Russia when he chose to be; known as the worst man in the world to interview and as a man who believed absolutely in himself and apparently never questioned the correctness of his method.

His friends, however, knew him as a simple, unaffected companion, an interesting conversationalist, with keen wit and genial humor.

Once a woman asked him why he kept on accumulating money when he already had more than he needed.

"I do not want money," Mr. Morgan is said to have replied. "But I do enjoy the excitement, the fun of making it."

Business was not all to the life of J. Pierpont Morgan. His office hours were short and at the close of his business day he left his office and his business behind him. Woe to the person who then approached him on business bent. He cared little for society, but was fond of a good dinner in congenial company, of rare wines and big black cigars. Wines he partook of with moderation. To cigars he was almost a slave.

ers were just beginning the clearing out and rebuilding of their wrecked homes, Governor Cox and members of the Legislature today began an outline of reconstructive legislation which will be followed in all the flood districts by the State.

It practically was decided that the San Francisco relief plan will be placed in effect for the Ohio sufferers. Under this plan relief will be based upon property loss of the individual and the income loss incurred. The amount of relief each person would receive would be prorated on such a basis.

During the day Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, and Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States Army, called on the Governor and went over the situation with him. Upon recommendation of Governor Cox, the Legislature recessed until next Monday, thereby giving State officials a week in which to learn the most urgent needs of the various stricken communities and some estimate of the amount of money needed to replace damaged property.

A joint legislative committee, composed of members of both houses, was appointed by the presiding officers to assist the Governor and other State officials in framing suitable legislation.

Resolutions warmly thanking the citizens of New York State and Pennsylvania for their good contributions were adopted.

That temporary improvements made necessary by the floods, may be made at once, Representative Snyder, of Pickaway, offered a bill which would allow county commissioners, municipal councils and township trustees to issue emergency bonds and let emergency contracts without the usual formality of legal notices and advertising, upon the question of the authority of the commissioner.

Wright Couldn't Fly

South Dayton, Ohio, March 31.—Orville Wright, who like thousands of other Daytonians, was engaged in shoveling mud from the Wright homestead today, had no chance to use an aeroplane when the flood came.

When warning of the flood came, his father, Bishop Wright, and his sister, Katherine, left the place in a wagon. In some way they became separated and for two days the inventor could not find his father. When located it was found that he had experienced no mishap. Orville Wright fled soon after the other two and found refuge on high ground.

The interior of his house was ruined by water. Fire broke out in a building near the old shop where the Wright brothers worked for so many years perfecting their flying machine. In the shop were invaluable plans and data dealing with the construction of aeroplanes and navigation of the air. Orville was greatly relieved when he returned to find that the flames had spared the shop and its contents.

At the meeting of the relief committee and members of the delegated City Council, members of the latter declared their individual willingness to cooperate with the committee in all necessary measures for the protection and rehabilitation of the city. It was decided to appropriate $50,000 of the relief fund to the Red Cross to be expended in purchasing the bare necessities which will permit destitute families to re-establish homes of a sort until they can improve their own condition.

A court martial was organized today with 40 petty cases on the docket. This court must try such cases as the municipal court justices have superceded under martial law. Reports that looters have been shot are untrue, according to statements by those in authority. There have been rumors of such occurrences, but none has bene confirmed. In none of the morgues is there anybody showing bullet wounds.

Guards have fired shots to frighten suspecting-looking characters, but never have shot to kill or injure them.

George F. Burba, secretary to Governor Cox, to elucidate the causes of the flood, prepared a chart today using the human hand as an illustration.

The fingers pointing north represent the streams flowing into the Miami river, which is the wrist in his illustration. The "wrist" was blocked by dumpings, bridge abuttments too narrow and other impediments and could not take care of the influx of water from the tributaries. Hence the flood.

The list of identified dead reached 60 today. The first direct news received here of the situation at Piqua was brought in today by Harry Lewis, who as representative of the Lima Progressive Association took a car of supplies into Piqua. Practically no newspapers have been received here since Tuesday and the people of Dayton are growing very anxious to learn of conditions in other cities in the flooded districts.

News of the death of J. P. Morgan today first reached the public through a bulletin posted by a representative of the Associated Press. Later the Dayton News, whose plant was inundated, put a two-page paper on the street, in which a few details of the death of the great financier were printed. Wire conditions are such, however, that only meagre bulletins of important news can be received.

Special Flood Bulletin

Washington, March 31.—The following special flood bulletin was issued by the Weather Bureau tonight:

"The crest of the Ohio river flood has about reached Cincinnati, with a stage at 7 P. M. Monday of 69.5 feet, 19.5 feet above flood stage. While the river may rise a few tenths of a foot more, it will not quite reach 70 feet. At Louisville the stage at 7 P. M. Monday was 44.2 feet, 16.2 feet above flood stage. A crest stage of 45 feet is expected Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. At Evansville the stage at 3 P. M. Monday was 45.7, a scant 10.7 feet above flood stage. It is expected that the river at Evansville and Henderson will crest between 47 and 48 feet, but at Mount Vernon the crest will probably be 50 feet. Brisk west winds are causing rough water in the neighborhood of Evansville. At Cairo the stage at 7 P. M. Monday was 52.6 feet, 7.6 feet above flood stage. There is some indication that the relatively high stage of the Mississippi at Cairo is backing up the waters of the Ohio, and there is a possibility, although a slight one, that the rate of rise in the Ohio at Cairo will diminish temporarily in a day or so. Between Cairo and New Orleans the following stages are forecast:

"At Memphis a stage of 44.5 feet with the next eight or nine days, flood stage 35 feet; at Helena, Ark., a maximum stage of 54 feet, flood stage 42 feet. With the water now in sight, and if the levees hold, the following stages are forecast for points between Helena and New Orleans: Arkansas City, Ark., 52 to 53 feet, flood stage 47 feet; Greenville, Miss., 45 to 46 feet, flood stage 42 feet; Vicksburg, 52 feet or slightly over, flood stage 45 feet; Natchez, 50.5 to 51.5, flood stage, 46 feet; Baton Rouge, La., 40 to 41 feet, flood stage, 35 feet; Donaldsonville, La., 32.3 feet, flood stage, 28 feet; New Orleans, 19.6 to 20.6 feet, flood stage, 18 feet. The flood is expected to reach New Orleans between April 20th and April 30th. The above Helena to New Orleans stages are all slightly under those of the 1912 flood."

Near Crest at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., March 31.—With a stage of 44.3 feet here tonight, a rise of .6 foot since 7 o'clock this morning, the Ohio river is expected to continue rising slowly until late tomorrow, when the crest of the flood will reach Louisville, with a stage of about 45 feet. The crest of the flood of 1884 at this point was 46.5 feet. High winds lashed the waters in the flooded sections of the city.

The cities in this section, according to advices, are prepared for the approaching crest and expect little or no damage. Repair work on the levee at Hickman, Ky., was believed to have placed that city beyond imminent danger.

Repair work on the embankment in Jeffersonville, Ind., opposite here, which threatened to crumble today, continued tonight and it was believed that there was no further occasion for anxiety there.

Railroad service in and out of Louisville tonight continued irregular. The Louisville, Indianapolis and Chicago announced tonight, however, that regular service would be resumed tomorrow.

Relief Work Satisfactory.

Washington, March 31.—Secretary Garrison's reports to President Wilson today continued to convey optimistic news of the flood situation in Ohio. His messages said that all places hitherto inaccessible had been reached or soon would be and that there was an abundance of food and relief supplies. He lauded the work of Governor Cox, and summarizes:

"The result is that from reports made to Governor Cox and to me we are able to assure you and through you the country that there is no emergency in the State of Ohio due to the flood which has not been met and is now being met."

At the request of Governor Cox the secretary included in his report a message from the Governor to the President thanking him for the Federal aid and the work of Secretary Garrison.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels estimated that the value of the clothing from the navy clothing depot at New York to the flood sufferers reached $330,900.90 and that food supplied by the navy cost $72,094.

Enrique Villejas, minister of foreign relations of Chile, cabled Secretary Bryan the sympathy of the people of Chile in the loss of life in the Ohio and Indiana floods.

DANIELS BEHIND JUSTICE

Fighting Watts' Appointment With Old-time Vigor—Interesting

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., March 31.—Interest was increased today in the Watts-Justice fight over the collectorship of Western North Carolina when it was learned that Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy and National committeeman from North Carolina, was behind Justice in his opposition to Watts' appointment.

Mr. Daniels himself, when asked if he was opposing Watts' appointment, said that he was too busy with Navy Department affairs to discuss North Carolina appointments. However, it is known that Daniels is fighting the Iredell man's appointment with the old-time Daniels' vigor. Just what the outcome will be no one here is willing to predict.

No formal endorsements for Watts has as yet been presented to either President Wilson or Secretary McAdoo. But it is almost sure that both Senators will insist that Watts be appointed. It looks like, however, that Daniels has the President's ear and that he is being consulted in regard to Federal "pie" in the State. Should this prove true, a very interesting fight is assured. Senators, no matter from what section of the country they happen to hail, have in the past refused to allow other men to dictate appointments in their own State for which they are held responsible. Should the President refuse to recognize Senators Simmons and Overman in North Carolina appointments, the prediction is made that a number of Republicans in the State will be holding their present jobs when Congress adjourns, sometime yet to be determined, but most likely late in August. TRAVIS HEADED LIST

Veteran Golfer Finished First in Qualification Round

Pinehurst, N. C., March 31.—Walter J. Travis, Garden City, former international champion, today headed the list with a card of 78 in the first round of the 36-hole qualification of the 13th annual United North and South Amateur Golf Championship tournament.

Henry C. Fownes, of Oakmont, Pa., was second with 80. He lost a chance to tie on the 18th green, where he made a seven to five for Travis. J. D. Foote, of Apawamis, and C. L. Becker, of Woodland, made 83. C. V. Meserold, of Englewood, and R. L. James, of Butler, Pa., made 84. Among other prominent participants who finished well up in the field of 120 were: H. J. Topping, Greenwich; Hamilton K. Kerr, of Ekwanok; Chisholm Beach, of Fox Hills; Walter Fairbanks, of Denver; B. Warren Corkran, of Baltimore, and J. P. Gardner, of Chicago.

Washington, March 31.—With delegates present representing the various lodges in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, District Grand Lodge No. 5, Independent Order of B'Nai B'Rith, met here today in its 39th annual session. Julius I. Peyser, president of the order, presided, and the day was devoted to the transaction of business.

The annual reports of the president and secretary, Dr. George Solomon, were read, showing a total membership of 1,296. The necessity of a per capita tax to create an emergency fund for use in such a crisis as the Balkan war when Jews of the nations involved are in need of immediate assistance was the subject of much discussion, but no definite action was taken.
